National Aeronautics and Space Administration, 1982. Information Security Seymour Goodman, Detmar W. Straub, Richard Baskerville, 2016-09-16 Information security is everyone's concern. The way we live is underwritten by information system infrastructures, most notably the Internet. The functioning of our business organizations, the management of our supply chains, and the operation of our governments depend on the secure flow of information. In an organizational environment, information security is a never-ending process of protecting information and the systems that produce it. This volume in the Advances in Management Information Systems series covers the managerial landscape of information security. It deals with how organizations and nations organize their information security policies and efforts. The book covers how to strategize and implement security with a special focus on emerging technologies. It highlights the wealth of security technologies and also indicates that the problem is not a lack of technology but rather its intelligent application. Audit and Control of Information Systems Frederick Gallegos, A. Faye Borthick, 1987. Data Security for Health Care SEISMED Consortium, 1996. The efficiency of modern health care relies more and more upon a computerized infrastructure. Open distributed information systems have started to bring professionals together from all over the world. On the one hand, easy processing and communication of images, sound, and texts will help to visualize and therefore treat illnesses and diseases efficiently. On the other hand, the very ease of access and use can threaten patient privacy, accountability, and health care professional secrecy. Developments in community care are responsible for the fact that many aspects of patient care are delivered outside the closed walls of a hospital, and hence patient records must also be accessible and updated throughout the community. Therefore, the introduction of information technology should focus primarily on the improvement of the health of patients or at least not putting patients' health at risk. This means that the right data has to be available to the right person.

at the right time availability Information technology deeply affects the confidential relationship between patient and doctor since it increasingly surrounds and mediates it Information systems in health care establishments are increasingly developing towards an integrated system where various users can interact and communicate The process of integration will cross the borders of local health care establishments and it will progressively expand e g into patients homes into a European health care community in order to support the mobility of patients the exchange of medical and administrative data transfer of bills and money
