Mysticism and the Mid-Century Novel J. Clements,2011-11-01 This book argues that many of the mid twentieth century s significant novelists were united by a desire to return the increasingly interior novel to ethical engagement They did not seek morality in society politics or the individual will but sought to unveil a transcendent Good by using techniques drawn from the canon of mystical literature

Together by Accident Stephanie C. Palmer,2008-12-16 This fascinating account of the regional travel accident motif within American local color literature offers a reassessment of the cultural work done by authors writing during the Gilded Age Stephanie C Palmer shows how events like broken carriage wheels and missed trains were used by local color authors to bring together bourgeois and lower class characters thus giving readers the opportunity to see modernity coming into contact with both rural and urban life Using the works of Sarah Orne Jewett Bret Harte William Dean Howells Elizabeth Stuart Phelps and others Palmer traces the use of the regional travel accident motif and how local color writers employed it to give critiques on class society and modern life Exploring the themes of regional identity modernity and interpersonal relationships Together by Accident offers an intriguing evaluation of the innovations and inconveniences associated with life during the industrializing Gilded Age in America Accident Society Jason Puskar,2012-01-11 This book argues that language and literature actively produced chance in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries by categorizing injuries and losses as innocent of design Automobile collisions and occupational injuries became car accidents and industrial accidents During the post Civil War period of racial ethnic and class based hostility chance was an abstract enemy against which society might unite By producing chance novels by William Dean Howells Stephen Crane Anna Katharine Green Edith Wharton Theodore Dreiser and James Cain documented and helped establish new modes of collective interdependence Chance here is connected not with the competitive individualism of the Gilded Age but with important progressive and social democratic reforms including developments in insurance which had long employed accident narratives to shape its own mutual society Accident Society reveals the extent to which American collectivity has depended and continues to depend on the literary production of chance Realism's Others Eva Aldea,Geoffrey Baker,2010-07-12 For at least a century scholarship on realist narrative and occasional polemics against realist narrative have assumed that realism promotes the values of sameness against those of otherness and that it does so by use of a narrative mode that excludes certain epistemologies ideologies and ways of thinking However the truth is more complex than that as the essays in this volume all demonstrate Realism s Others examines the various strategies by which realist narratives create the idea of difference whether that difference is registered in terms of class ethnicity epistemology nationality or gender The authors in this collection examine in detail not just the fact of otherness in some canonical realist and canonical magical realist and postmodern novels but the actual means by which that otherness is established by the text These essays suggest that neither realist narrative nor narratives positioned as anti realist take otherness for granted rather the texts discussed here actively create difference and this creation of difference often occasions severe difficulties for the novels representational schema How does one represent different types of knowledge other aesthetic modes or other spaces for example in texts whose epistemology has long been seen as secular and empirical whose aesthetic mode has always been approached as pure descriptive mimesis and whose settings are largely domestic These essays all begin with a certain collision of nationalities of classes of representational matrices of religions and go on to chart the challenges that this collision presents to our ideas or stereotypes of realism or to the possibilities of writing against and beyond realism This question motivates examination of key realist or social realist texts in some of these essays by Honor de Balzac George Eliot Franz Grillparzer Theodor Storm

Gottfried Keller Theodor Fontane Wilhelm Raabe Mar a Amparo Ruiz de Burton Henry James William Dean Howells Charles Chesnutt Theodore Dreiser H T Tsiang Alan Sillitoe and Richard Yates However it is no less central a question in certain non realist texts which engage realist aims to a surprising degree often to debate them openly some of these essays discuss in this light fantastic magical realist and postmodern works by Abram Tertz Paul Auster Alejo Carpentier Toni Morrison Gabriel Garc a M rquez Salman Rushdie and A S Byatt Realism becomes more than an aesthetic aim or narrative mode It becomes rather a value evoked and discussed by all of the works analyzed here in order to reveal its impact on fiction s treatment of ethnicity nationality ideology space gender and social class

Through the Window, Out the Door Janis P. Stout,2020-11-10 This informative and provocative study focuses on the centrality of departure in the texts of five major American women novelists An important moment in many novels and poems by American women writers occurs when a central character looks out a window or walks out the door of a house These acts of departure serve to convey such values as the rejection of constraining social patterns the search for individual fulfillment and the entry into the political Janis Stout examines such moments and related patterns of venture and travel in the fiction of five major American novelists of the 20th century Mary Austin Willa Cather Anne Tyler Toni Morrison and Joan Didion Stout views these five writers within a spectrum of narrative engagements with issues of home and departure a spectrum anchored at one end by Sarah Orne Jewett and at the other by Marilynne Robinson whose Housekeeping posits a vision of female transience Through the Window Out the Door ranges over an expansive territory Moving between texts as well as between texts and contexts Stout shows how women writers have envisioned the walls of physical and social structures including genres as permeable boundaries drawing on both a rhetoric of liberation and a rhetoric of domesticity to construct narrative arguments for women s right to move freely between the two Stout concludes with a personal essay on the dilemmas of domesticity and the ambivalence of departure
