

BOXER

The boxer has been known since the 16th century. It was bred from most of the dogs of the bulldog type and the Tibetan mastiff and was perfected in Germany. Later, there was some berrier blood added to this breed. It was among the first breeds chosen in Germany for police training.

It is named from its manner of fighting, as a dog of this type begins a fight with its front paws, and thus looks like a man boxing. It has fearlessness, agility, strength, courage, and intelligence. It shows devotion and is a good companion.
