Bernard Shaw's Book Reviews: 1884-1950 Bernard Shaw, Brian Tyson, 1991 This new volume of Bernard Shaw's book reviews is a companion to Brian Tyson's previously edited collection of Shaw's earlier book reviews Here Tyson collects seventy-three of the best remaining literary book reviews written by Shaw throughout his lifetime Two-thirds of the reviews appear in book form for the first time the originals residing in the archives of newspaper libraries and only three of the remainder have been reprinted within the last twenty years Politics feature largely in the works that Shaw reviewed there are books of socialist theory and its practical appearance in the Soviet Union as well as books on the individualism of J H Levy the anti-socialism of Thomas McKay and the economics of E C K Gonner and Philip Wicksteed There is often an immediacy about the books reviewed too discussion of books on World War I the Soviet Revolution women's suffrage the British General Strike of 1926 and World War II all take place concurrently with the events. Many of the works reviewed are biographies which give Shaw the opportunity to reveal his personal acquaintance with their subjects including Samuel Butler, William Morris, and Dean Inge. This widely varied collection sparkles with wit and wisdom, taking us briskly through Shaw's own writing life, beginning when he was relatively unknown and concluding when he was a legend. Bernard Shaw and H.G. Wells Bernard Shaw, Herbert George Wells, 1995. The second volume in the series of Shaw's correspondence contains 152 letters between him and fellow Victorian British writer and Fabian Club member Wells, exchanged between 1901 and 1946. Most of them are by Shaw and most previously unpublished. They encourage, advise, bully, and sometimes insult each other over literature, drama, sex, education, Russia, wives, and a wide range of other topics. An afterword provides their published views of each other. Notes clarify names and events mentioned and sometimes contextualize the letters. The Irrational Knot was first published in 1905, having been written in 1880. Within a framework of leisure, class, preoccupations, and frivolities, Shaw disdains hereditary status and proclaims the nobility of workers. Marriage, as the knot in question, is exemplified by the union of Marian Lind, a lady of the upper class, to Edward Conolly, always a workman but now a magnate, thanks to his invention of an electric motor that makes steam engines obsolete. The marriage soon deteriorates primarily because Marian fails to rise above the preconceptions and limitations of her social class and is therefore unable to share her husband's interests. The Man of Destiny is an 1897 play by George Bernard Shaw, set in Italy during the early career of Napoleon. It was published as a part of Plays Pleasant, which also included Arms and the Man, Candida, and You Never Can Tell. The Wisdom of Bernard Shaw George Bernard Shaw, Charlotte Shaw, 2014-03.
