Affect And Cognition:

Feeling and Thinking Joseph P. Forgas, 2001-06-04 The role of affect in how people think and behave in social situations has been a source of fascination to laymen and philosophers since time immemorial Surprisingly most of what we know about the role of feelings in social thinking and behavior has been discovered only during the last two decades This book reviews and integrates the most recent research and theories on this exciting topic and features original contributions from leading researchers active in the area The book covers fundamental issues such as the nature and relationship between affect and cognition as well as chapters that deal with the cognitive antecedents of emotion and the consequences of affect for social cognition and behavior The book offers a highly integrated and comprehensive coverage of the field and is suitable as a core textbook in advanced courses dealing with the role of affect in cognition and behavior Affect, Cognition and Social Behavior Klaus Fiedler, Joseph P. Forgas, 1988 Affect, Cognition and Stereotyping Diane M. Mackie, David L. Hamilton, 2014-06-28 This volume presents a collection of chapters exploring the interface of cognitive and affective processes in stereotyping Stereotypes and prejudice have long been topics of interest in social psychology but early literature and research in this area focused on affect alone while later studies focused primarily on cognitive factors associated with information processing strategies This volume integrates the roles of both affect and cognition with regard to the formation representation and modification of stereotypes and the implications of these processes for the escalation or amelioration of intergroup tensions Reviewed Development maintenance and change of stereotypes and prejudice Interaction of affective and cognitive processes as antecedents of stereotyping and prejudice Affect and cognitive consequences of group categorization perception and interaction The interaction of cognitive and affective processes in social perception Award Winning Chapter The Esses et al was the 1992 winner of the Otto Klineberg award given by the Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues which cited the chapter as having offered a substantial advance in our understanding of basic psychological processes underlying racism stereotyping and prejudice Affect and Cognition Margaret S. Clark, Susan T. Fiske, 2014-01-14 First published in 1982 In late May 1981 the 17th annual Carnegie Symposium on Cognition brought 16 cognitive and social psychologists to Carnegie Mellon University Their topic was affect and cognition For only the second time the Carnegie Symposium had been organized by social psychologists John Carroll and John Payne chaired the first social cognitive symposium in 1975 Their conference came precisely at the time when social cognition was beginning to take root within social psychology Since then the area has blossomed These are the papers from the conference Affect, Cognition and Change Philip Barnard, John Teasdale, 2014-02-04 This text a collaboration between a clinical psychologist and a cognitive psychologist offers a cognitive account of depression Communication, Social Cognition, and Affect Lewis Donohew, Howard E. Sypher, Edward Tory Higgins, 1988 Mounting attention in the research literature has been paid to the roles of social cognition and affect in the communication process This tightly knit collection presents the most current original research in this area from leading researchers in communication and psychology The volume presents a well integrated account of important interdisciplinary approaches to communication processes cognitive processes and behavior

Affect, Conditioning, and Cognition (PLE: Emotion) J. Bruce Overmier,F. Robert Brush,2014-11-20 Originally published in 1985 this title was a retrospective appreciation of the late Richard L Solomon His pre and postdoctoral students from past years presented the 22 papers which are published in this volume The book reflects the breadth of Solomon s impact through his teaching and research The first part contains a chapter that provides a bit of history in a retrospective appreciation of the several foci of Solomon s research career This chapter sets the stage for those that follow and reduces their diversity by providing a degree of historical understanding The second part on the role of properties of fear contains chapters that address various issues associated with the role of conditioned fear The third part contains papers that address cognitive information processing issues in the context of Pavlovian conditioning of appetitive and aversive events reasoning and timing The fourth part continues the exploration of the phenomenon of learned helplessness first discovered in Solomon s laboratory The fifth part addresses various issues associated with the Solomon and Corbit opponent process theory of motivation and affect The final part on applications to human and cultural issues contains chapters on such diverse subjects as cross cultural analyses of aggressive behavior in children the analysis of resistance to change in industrial organizations the concept of liberty in formulating research issues in developmental psychology and the status of free will in modern American psychology

Affect and Cognition in Criminal Decision Making Jean-Louis van Gelder,Henk Elffers,Danielle Reynald,Daniel Nagin,2013-11-26 Research and theorizing on criminal decision making has not kept pace with recent developments in other fields of human decision making Whereas criminal decision making theory is still largely dominated by cognitive approaches such as rational choice based models psychologists behavioral economists and neuroscientists have found affect i e emotions moods and visceral factors such as sexual arousal and drug craving to play a fundamental role in human decision processes This book examines alternative approaches to incorporating affect into criminal decision making and testing its influence on such decisions In so doing it generalizes extant cognitive theories of criminal decision making by incorporating affect into the decision process In two conceptual and ten empirical chapters it is carefully argued how affect influences criminal decisions alongside rational and cognitive considerations The empirical studies use a wide variety of methods ranging from interviews and observations to experimental approaches and questionnaires and treat crimes as diverse as street robbery pilfering and sex offences It will be of interest to criminologists social psychologists judgment and decision making researchers behavioral economists and sociologists alike Affect, Cognition, and Personality Silvan Solomon Tomkins, 1965 Affect, Cognition and

Categories in Decision Making Carlos Andres Trujillo, 2008-04-01 Recently there has been increasing interest in how emotions affect decision making In particular how does emotion interact with cognition when people make decisions The work of Carlos A Trujillo represents a bold attempt to illuminate the interplay between cognitive and emotional factors when people are involved in this important activity His contribution is both empirical and theoretical Trujillo reports the results of five experiments and then goes on to develop an organizing framework His results are informative and his work is innovative It defines both new paths and challenges for further investigation into the mysteries of the mind By Robin M Hogarth ICREA Research Professor Universitat Pompeu Fabra Barcelona In this work particular attention is paid to the role of meta cognitive activities the situational cognitive capacities of individuals and the way people produce and employ categorical information Results are of interest for behavioral decision scientists management and marketing researchers Affect, Conditioning, and Cognition J. Bruce Overmier, F. Robert Brush, 2016-11-17 Originally published in 1985 this title was a retrospective appreciation of the late Richard L Solomon His pre and postdoctoral students from past years presented the 22 papers which are published in this volume The book reflects the breadth of Solomon s impact through his teaching and research The first part contains a chapter that provides a bit of history in a retrospective appreciation of the several foci of Solomon s research career This chapter sets the stage for those that follow and reduces their diversity by providing a degree of historical understanding The second part on the role of properties of fear contains chapters that address various issues associated with the role of conditioned fear The third part contains papers that address cognitive information processing issues in the context of Pavlovian conditioning of appetitive and aversive events reasoning and timing The fourth part continues the exploration of the phenomenon of learned helplessness first discovered in Solomon s laboratory The fifth part addresses various issues associated with the Solomon and Corbit opponent process theory of motivation and affect The final part on applications to human and cultural issues contains chapters on such diverse subjects as cross cultural analyses of aggressive behavior in children the analysis of resistance to change in industrial organizations the concept of liberty in formulating research issues in developmental psychology and the status of free will in modern American psychology

Affect and Social Behavior Bert S. Moore, Alice M. Isen, 1990-03-30 Affect and Social Behavior first published in 1990 provides a comprehensive and integrative examination of research and theory into the role that emotion plays in influencing social behavior The contributors investigate a number of important domains such as aggression altruism romantic attraction and consumer behavior and the role that affect plays in instigating and regulating these behaviors The chapters were written by some of the most prominent researchers in the field and they provide a review of research and theory in this important area of study

Affect and Creativity Sandra Walker Russ, 2013-02-01 Much work has been done on cognitive processes and creativity but there is another half to the picture of creativity the affect half This book addresses that other half by synthesizing the information that exists about affect and creativity and presenting a new model of the role of affect in the creative process Current information comes from disparate literatures research traditions and theoretical approaches There is a need in the field for a comprehensive framework for understanding and investigating the role of affect in creativity The model presented here spells out connections between specific affective and cognitive processes important in creativity and personality traits associated with creativity Identifying common findings and themes in a variety of research studies and descriptions of the creative process this book integrates child and adult research and the classic psychoanalytic approach to creativity with contemporary social and cognitive psychology In so doing it addresses two major questions Is affect an important part of the creative process If it is then how is affect involved in creative thinking In addition Russ presents her own research program in the area of affect and creativity and introduces The Affect in Play Scale a method of measuring affective expression in children s play which can be useful in child psychotherapy and creativity research Current issues in the creativity area are also discussed such as artistic versus scientific creativity adjustment and the creative process the role of computers in learning about creativity gender differences in the creative process and enhancing creativity in home school and work settings Finally Russ points to future research issues and directions and discusses alternative research paradigms such as mood induction methods versus children s play procedures

Handbook of Affective Sciences Richard J Davidson, Klaus R Sherer, H. Hill Goldsmith, 2009-05-21 One hundred stereotype maps glazed with the most exquisite human prejudice especially collected for you by Yanko Tsvetkov author of the viral Mapping Stereotypes project Satire and cartography rarely come in a single package but in the Atlas of Prejudice they successfully blend in a work of art that is both funny and thought provoking The book is based on Mapping Stereotypes Yanko Tsvetkov's critically acclaimed project that became a viral Internet sensation in 2009 A reliable weapon against bigots of all kinds it serves as an inexhaustible source of much needed argumentation and occasionally as a nice slab of paper that can be used to smack them across the face whenever reasoning becomes utterly impossible The Complete Collection version of the Atlas contains all maps from the previously published two volumes and adds twenty five new ones wrapping the best selling series in a single extended edition

The Logic of Affect Paul Redding, 2019-04-15 Most attempts to trace the roots of current scientific approaches to the mind have ignored the contributions of post Kantian German idealism Paul Redding here shows the relevance of this philosophical tradition to an understanding of the mind and its embodiment as well as the relation of feeling to cognition Redding observes how Fichte Schelling and Hegel struggled with the problem of reconciling Kant's normative approach to experience and thought with the naturalistic stance of the emerging medical sciences A century later William James Freud and Jung also addressed the interconnection of thought and feeling reaching views similar to those of the post Kantian idealists In particular Redding argues the idealists conceived of a logic of affect that reemerged in Freud's concept of the primary process and in modern evolutionary ideas of subcortical processing This innovative book demonstrates how new insights can be brought to the study of mentality and consciousness by considering previously overlooked interpretations Redding shows that these early theorists of the unconscious can bring scholars to a better appreciation not only of classical thinkers like James and Freud but also of contemporary debates about the mind and emotions
