Affirmative Action Around the World Thomas Sowell, 2004-01-01 An eminent authority presents a new perspective on affirmative action in a provocative book that will stir fresh debate about this vitally important issue Affirmative Action Matters Laura Dudley Jenkins, Michele S. Moses, 2014-04-04 Affirmative Action Matters focuses specifically on affirmative action policies in higher education admissions the sphere that has been the most controversial in many of the nations that have such policies It brings together distinguished scholars from diverse nations to examine and discuss the historical political and philosophical contexts of affirmative action and clarify policy developments to further the meaningful equality of educational opportunity This unique volume includes both well established and emerging policies from the Americas Europe Africa and Asia policies which developed under a variety of political systems and target a range of underrepresented groups based on race ethnicity gender class social background or region Accessible and thought provoking case studies of affirmative action demonstrate that such policies are expanding to different countries and target populations While some countries such as India have affirmative action policies that predate those in the United States affirmative action is a recent development in countries such as Brazil and France Legal or political pressures to move away from explicitly race based policies in several countries have complicated affirmative action and make this assessment of international alternatives particularly timely New or newly modified policies target a variety of disadvantaged groups based on geography class or caste in addition to race or sex International scholars in six countries spanning five continents offer insights into their own countries experiences to examine the implications of policy shifts from race toward other categories of disadvantage to consider best practices in student admission policies and to assess the future of affirmative action Affirmative Action Around the World Rachel M. Gisselquist, Simone Schotte, Min J. Kim, 2023 Affirmative action or positive discrimination favouring the members of marginalized populations is a key policy approach for addressing group based inequalities along ethnic religious and racial lines e g horizontal inequalities It is adopted in dozens of countries around the world in the areas of for instance university enrolment public employment and political representation as corrective social justice measures and means to mitigate ethnic conflict Public debate over affirmative action is heated in many contexts underscoring both potential benefits for correcting historical injustices supporting marginalized groups and promoting equality and potential harms especially in terms of perceptions of fairness and societal conflict In order to better evaluate such claims and to consider the appropriateness of affirmative action policies across diverse contexts further information about these policies is needed Although there is a large research literature on affirmative action much of it focuses on a limited number of countries This paper introduces a new Affirmative Action AA Dataset which speaks to this research gap It provides detailed information in a standardized format on the design and modalities of AA policies as well as on their adoption implementation and impact and on associated controversies The AA Dataset can thus be used to provide a systematic description of policies and together with other cross country datasets to situate and examine these experiences comparatively including in regional and global perspectives Version 1 discussed in this paper covers 53 countries

Côté, 2016-06-03 This is the first handbook to cover the sociological approaches to higher education It is timely because of global expansions of mass higher educational systems especially as these systems come under scrutiny by a variety of stakeholders Questions are being raised about the value of traditional pedagogies along with calls for efficiency accountability and cost reduction but above all job training Within this neoliberal context each chapter examines different sociological aspects of and debates about educational institutions as status conferring organizations with myriad positional characteristics experiences and outcomes Many current debates concern the legitimacy of the statuses conferred including the continuing debate regarding the role of universities in legitimating social class reproduction as well as more recent concerns about standards in mass systems This handbook puts these issues and debates in focus in ways that will be of interest to a variety of stakeholders within academia as well as in policy circles
