Johnson, 2013-02-11 Economic Evidence and Changing Nature of Urban Space in Late Antique Rome by Paul Johnson is an innovative study that focuses upon the relationship between the importation of amphora borne foodstuffs their distribution and discard within the City and what this tells us about changing uses of urban space between the 3rd and 6th centuries AD There have been a number of archaeological studies of late antique Rome in recent years most notably Roma dall antichit all alto Medioevo I and II as well as a long tradition of studies that have focused upon the pattern of imports to the City However the relationship between imported foodstuffs and the City as an urban unit has not been so well served Of cemeteries, or burying-places; with an inquiry, how and when the custom of burying in churches first came in Joseph Bingham, 1878 Law in the Roman Provinces Kimberley Czajkowski, Benedikt Eckhardt, Meret Strothmann, 2020-06-10 The study of the Roman Empire has changed dramatically in the last century with significant emphasis now placed on understanding the experiences of subject populations rather than a sole focus on the Roman imperial elites Local experiences and interactions between periphery and centre are an intrinsic component in our understanding of the empire s function over and against the earlier top down model But where does law fit into this new decentralized picture of empire This volume brings together internationally renowned scholars from both legal and historical backgrounds to study the operation of law in each region of the Roman Empire from Britain to Egypt from the first century BCE to the end of the third century CE Regional specificities are explored in detail alongside the emergence of common themes and activities in a series of case studies that together reveal a new and wide ranging picture of law in the Roman Empire balancing the practicalities of regional variation with the ideological constructs of law and empire The Antiquities of the Christian Church Joseph Bingham, 1875 The mosaics of Greece to the pavements of Christian churches in the East Separate chapters in Part I cover the principal regions of the Roman Empire in turn in order to bring out the distinctive characteristics of their mosaic workshops Questions of technique and production of the role of mosaics in architecture and of their social functions and implications are treated in Part II The book discusses both well known works and recent finds and balances consideration of exceptional masterpieces against standard workshop production Two main lines of approach are followed throughout first the role of mosaics as a significant art form which over an unbroken span illuminates the evolution of pictorial style better than any comparable surviving medium and secondly their character as works of artisan production closely linked to their architectural context
