Decision Making: Recent Developments and Worldwide Applications Stelios H. Zanakis, Georgios Doukidis, Constantin Zopounidis, 2013-04-17 This chapter describes a study conducted at the Swinburne University of Technology in Australia in their School of Business The study was to explore the applicability of a judgment analytic decision support system to the assessment of the likelihood of an applicant being selected for admission to the School's Graduate Certificate in Business Administration GCBA program The likelihood of a program administrator selecting a particular applicant is directly linked to the assessment of the likelihood of that applicant's success in the GCBA program The purpose of this study in effect was to analyze the administrative judgment process in assessment of an applicant's likelihood of success in the program

THE PROCESS OF HUMAN JUDGMENT Human judgment is a process through which an individual uses social information to make decisions The social information is obtained from an individual's environment and is interpreted through the individual's cognitive image of the environment The cognitive image provides a representation of the environment based on past experiences and training and essentially predisposes the person to respond to social information in predictable ways An individual's policies or beliefs about the environment represent these patterns Human judgments are based then upon one's interpretation of available information They are probability statements about one's environment and how one reacts to it This condition leads to the human judgment process being inherently limited It is fundamentally a covert process It is seldom possible for an individual to accurately describe his or her judgment process accurately

Multicriteria Decision Making Tomas Gal, Theodor Stewart, Thomas Hanne, 2013-03-09 At a practical level mathematical programming under multiple objectives has emerged as a powerful tool to assist in the process of searching for decisions which best satisfy a multitude of conflicting objectives and there are a number of distinct methodologies for multicriteria decision making problems that exist. These methodologies can be categorized in a variety of ways such as form of model e.g. linear non linear stochastic characteristics of the decision space e.g. finite or infinite or solution process e.g. prior specification of preferences or interactive. Scientists from a variety of disciplines mathematics economics and psychology have contributed to the development of the field of Multicriteria Decision Making MCDM or Multicriteria Decision Analysis MCDA Multiattribute Decision Making MADM Multiobjective Decision Making MODM etc over the past 30 years helping to establish MCDM as an important part of management science. MCDM has become a central component of studies in management science economics and industrial engineering in many universities worldwide.

Advances in Intelligent Systems Masoud Mohammadian, 2000 Advances in Urban Systems Modelling Bruce Hutchinson, Michael Batty, 1986

Planning has seen many changes in its central concerns and approaches in response to the state of the world with which it has had to deal. It is already almost twenty five years ago that the science of urban modelling entered the planning area. Time and innovation have inevitably brought about advances in the theory and practice of this science the pertinence of which is clearly demonstrated by the fact that planners still often lack convincing answers to the problems confronting them. In an attempt to clarify and tackle these problems the present volume analyzes the role development and applications of models in urban systems.
