what many historians see as signifying a shift to a post industrial society It delves into critical developments before the electronic era focusing on those of the mechanical era from the emergence of the steam engine to that of the electric power network and the electrical era from the emergence of the electric power network to that of electronic computing In so doing it provides due attention to the demarcations between and associated classifications of artifacts for calculation during these respective eras In turn it emphasizes the history of comparisons between these artifacts Topics and Features motivates exposition through a firm historiographical argument of important developments explores the history of the slide rule and its use in the context of electrification examines the roles of analyzers graphs and a whole range of computing artifacts hitherto placed under the allegedly inferior class of analog computers shows how the analog and the digital are really inseparable with perceptions thereof depending on either a full or a restricted view of the computing process investigates socially situated comparisons of computing history including the effects of a political economy of computing one that takes into account cost and ownership of computing artifacts assesses concealment of analog machine labor through encasement black boxing Historians of computing as well as those of technology and science especially energy will find this well argued and presented history of calculation and computation in the mechanical and electrical eras an indispensable resource The work is a natural textbook companion for history of computing courses and will also appeal to the broader readership of curious computer scientists and engineers as well as those who generally just have a yearn to learn the contextual background to the current digital age In this fascinating original work Tympanis indispensably intertwines the histories of analog and digital computing showing them to be inseparable from the evolution of social and economic conditions Prof David Mindell MIT
