Printer friendly

Concept Description

Last Updated: 2005-12-05

Introduction

The AHFS system for classifying drugs is commonly used in North America. This system is updated once a year, and is published as a book by the American Society of Health-System Pharmacists (<http://www.ashp.org/>). See AHFS Drug Information Web Site at: <http://www.ahfsdruginformation.com/> for more information.

The AHFS code is a 6 digit number which includes three levels of information arranged in a step-up / step-down manner. For example, all AHFS codes starting with 20 represent a broad class of drugs for Blood Formation and Coagulation. Additional information is provided for sub-categories of this class as digits are added:

Example:

20:00 Blood Formation and Coagulation
 20:04 Anti-anemia Drugs
 20:04.04 Iron Preparations
 20:04.08 Liver and Stomach Preparations

In Manitoba, the top 20 AHFS categories dispensed to residents for 1996 are provided below. These categories have been ranked by the number of claims. They represent 73.3% of all drug claims for that year.

	AHFS Classification	# of claims	% of claims
1	24:04.00 Cardiac Drugs	690,884	10.30

MEDLARS Management Section,1986 Handbook of Drug'Nutrient Interactions Joseph I. Boullata,Vincent T. Armenti,2004-04-17 Although there is a great deal of literature regarding drug nutrient interactions DNis there are limited sources of up to date comprehensive information The Handbook of Drug Nutrient Interactions admirably fills this gap The editors Dr Joseph I Boullata and Dr Vincent T Armenti have a wealth of experience in this therapeutic area and have assembled a fine cadre of chapter authors who have individually contributed their high level of expertise As treatment for many diseases becomes increasingly complex with multiple drug therapies scheduled at varying times the need to identify clinically significant DNis is an essential part of medication management This is a shared responsibility between health care professionals to interpret available data and individualize an approach to therapy that is compatible with the patient's disease state life stage and dietary intake Awareness of the significance of drug food interactions is generally lacking Although many texts contain lengthy lists of possible interactions few data are provided for the clinician to gain an understanding of the mechanism of action of the interaction and subsequently apply the information to a particular patient or group of patients For example in the management of patients with HN AIDS who are taking complex prescribed drug regimens herbal products and nutritional supplements many of which are affected by dietary intake careful attention to D Nls is a critical component of therapy Clinicians need to take account of not only the well documented interactions between drugs and nutrients but also the less obvious effects on drug nutrient disposition and metabolism
