

Defining Statistical Inference

Estimation

Estimation is the process of using sample data to estimate the value of a population parameter. There are two main types of estimation: point estimation and interval estimation.

Point Estimation: Estimating a single value for a population parameter. Interval Estimation: Estimating a range of values for a population parameter. Confidence Interval: A range of values that is likely to contain the true value of a population parameter. Prediction Interval: A range of values that is likely to contain the value of a future observation.
