Indigenous knowledge is regarded as undocumented cultural local traditional and community knowledge produced and owned by local people in their specific communities It is mainly preserved in the memories of elders and shared or passed on from generation to generation through oral communication traditional practices and demonstrations This irreplaceable resource may be lost forever as a direct result of the pressures of modernization colonization and globalization Concern over the loss of Indigenous knowledge has thus raised a need for the preservation and documentation of this knowledge in digital formats Digital Preservation and Documentation of Global Indigenous Knowledge Systems determines how Indigenous knowledge can be documented and digitally preserved to benefit Indigenous knowledge owners and their communities and be accessible for future generations The book provides the best practices innovative strategies theoretical and conceptual frameworks and empirical research findings regarding the digital preservation and documentation of Indigenous knowledge systems worldwide Covering topics such as digital media platforms educational management and knowledge systems this premier reference source is a valuable and useful tool for students information professionals knowledge managers records managers Indigenous knowledge owners Indigenous community leaders librarians archivists computer scientists information technology specialists students and educators of higher education researchers and academicians

Critical Research Methodologies ,2021-02-08 We live in a society that promotes the universal process of producing knowledge and truth making as fundamental social process Such promotion of universality seems to subjugate others forms of knowing rendering them invisible unintelligible and ineligible and subsequently outside the community of knowing This has material and symbolic consequences in terms of how research informs policy and subsequent victimization of those who live and experience subjugation meted by Western truth making universalism In the words of Foucault this book is an insurrection of subterranean and clandestine knowledges in ways that provide not just an alternative process of knowledge production but affirms local knowledge as necessary in production of a just society The book looks at research as a social justice and transformational process that should speak of people s ways of live without necessarily streamlining them into numbers The book is a critically reflexive project in terms of returning processes of knowledge production to the local space rather than imagining them as entirely centred in the structure To imagine this book as reflexive exercise is to break boundaries of knowledges in ways that come to imagine how local performs global in very complicated and complex ways This book is a resurrection of local knowledges steeped in creative and imaginative reflexive methodologies that come to reorient how we come to know what we know the values and realities that mark what we know and the how of knowledge production It centres subjugated voices and knowledges as fundamental in production of knowledge Contributors include Katie Bannon Elizabeth Charles Khulood Agha Khan Dionisio Nyaga Fritz Pino and Rose Ann Torres Windows
