for Staff Development: Personal and Professional Education in the 21st Century William A. Bryan, Robert A.

Schwartz, 1998. An educated, energetic and motivated student affairs staff is critical to the delivery of quality learning opportunities and services for students. This volume offers a range of strategies for recruiting, retaining and developing such a staff. The authors show how supervisors and mentors can make a positive impact on staff members' growth and discuss how to build a solid career foundation for entry level professionals. They also describe the influence of behavioral style on professional development and present a performance based approach to human resource development that emphasizes goal setting, coaching and performance assessment. Pennsylvania School Study Council, 1959 Professional Development of Information Technology Professionals B. Z. Barta, Angela Goh, Linda Lim, 1992. Professional development is the process through which aspiring professionals prepare for a working career as well as the continued upgrading of practitioners. This volume offers a primary source of information for those employers, professional societies and education and training institutes specifically interested in the professional development of employees involved in the Information Technology (IT) field where crucial problems are caused by the overwhelming pace of advances in technology and methodologies. Issues discussed include models and principles of professional education and development including the examination of current curricula and the investigation of the need for updating them and the promotion and effective implementation of the same through the publication of good practice in basic and continuing education. Also considered are corporational experiences with IT professional development schemes and the certification of IT professional development programmes. The specific needs of both developing and developed countries are represented since the 48 papers and summaries of 4 discussion groups derive from participants in IFIP's specialist Working Group 3.4 based in many different countries and organizations.
