When multiple forces act on an object, they combine to determine the net force, which determines whether the object speeds up, slows down, or changes direction. Understanding how forces act together is essential to explaining everyday phenomena, from a ball being kicked to a rocket launching to space. Newton's second law of motion states that the acceleration of an object is directly proportional to the net force acting on it and inversely proportional to its mass. This means that if the net force increases, the acceleration increases proportionally, but if the mass increases, the acceleration decreases. For example, pushing a heavy box with a small force results in a small acceleration, while pushing a lighter box with the same force results in a larger acceleration. Friction is a contact force that opposes the direction of motion, slowing an object down or preventing it from moving at all. It is caused by the interaction between the surfaces of two objects in contact. Friction is essential for many everyday activities, such as walking, driving, and holding objects. Without friction, objects would slide across surfaces without any resistance, making it impossible to walk, drive, or hold anything. Friction also plays a role in many natural processes, such as the movement of tectonic plates and the flow of magma.  Answer the questions that follow. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Which of the following is NOT a type of contact force? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Friction of shoes. Gravitation of Earth. Normal force. Applied force. Which of the following is NOT a type of contact force? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Normal force. Friction. Applied force. Gravity.
