Mathematics Paper November 2014 Grade 10:

The State of the Art in Student Engagement Carl Senior, 2015-07-10 There is an extensive literature conducted from a range of theoretical perspectives and methodologies on the role of groups and student learning in higher education. However, here the concept of the group is heavily contested at a theoretical level but within higher education practice characterizing the group has tended to be clear cut. Groups of students are often formed within the parameters of specific educational programs to address explicitly defined learning objectives. These groups are often small scale and achieve tasks through cooperative or collaborative learning. Cooperative learning involves students dividing roles and responsibilities between group members so learning becomes an independent process and outcome. On the other hand collaborative learning involves students working together by developing shared meanings and knowledge to solve a task or problem. From this perspective learning is conceptualized as both a social process and individual outcome. That is collaborative learning may facilitate individual student conceptual understanding and hence lead to higher academic achievement. The empirical evidence is encouraging as has been shown that students working collaboratively tend to achieve higher grades than students working independently. However, the above perspectives on student engagement assume that groups are formed within the confines of formal learning environments. e.g. lecture theaters. These involve students on the same degree program have the explicit function of achieving a learning task and disband once this has been achieved. However, students may also use existing social networks such as friendship groups as a mechanism for learning which may occur outside of formal learning environments. There is an extensive literature on the role and benefits of friendship groups on student learning within primary and secondary education but there is a distinct lack of research within higher education. This ebook is innovative and ambitious and will highlight and consolidate the current understanding of the role that student based engagement behaviors may serve in effective pedagogy. A unique aspect of this research topic will be the fact that scholars will also be welcome to submit articles that describe the efficacy of the full range of approaches that have been employed to facilitate student engagement across the sector.

Research for Educational Change Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice. Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident. The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice. In the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom. In the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms. Combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research

Global Action on School Library Guidelines Barbara A. Schultz-Jones, Dianne Oberg, 2015-06-16 This book celebrates the new IFLA School Library Guidelines and shows how the Guidelines can be used in improving school library services Each chapter describes innovative initiatives for developing implementing and promoting school library guidelines The book provides inspiration and guidance for the creation of national school library standards and for the development and use of standards and guidelines to change school library practice to define the teaching role of school librarians to guide the initial preparation of school librarians and to advocate for school library services Contributors to the book come from around the world Australia Canada Ethiopia France Malaysia Norway Poland Portugal Spain Sweden and the United States Their work illustrates the shared commitment of school librarians around the world to teaching and learning for all as envisioned in the IFLA UNESCO School Library Manifesto

Holocaust Education in Primary Schools in the Twenty-First Century Claus-Christian W. Szejnmann, Paula Cowan, James Griffiths, 2018-07-09 This collection is the first of its kind bringing together Holocaust educational researchers as well as school and museum educators from across the globe to discuss the potentials of Holocaust education in relation to primary school children Its contributors are from countries that have a unique relationship with the Holocaust such as Germany Israel neutral Switzerland and Allied countries outside the UK Their research provides new insight into the diverse ways in which primary aged students engage with Holocaust education Chapters explore the impact of teaching the Holocaust to this age group school and museum teaching pedagogies and primary students perspectives of the Holocaust This book will appeal to school and museum educators of primary aged students whose work requires them to teach the Holocaust Citizenship or Civics or Human Rights Education Since the turn of the twenty first century there has been a transformation in school and museum based Holocaust education This book clearly demonstrates that primary education has been included in this transformation

Introduction to Teaching Gene E. Hall, Linda F. Quinn, Donna M. Gollnick, 2018-11-29 An ideal introductory text for aspiring teachers Introduction to Teaching Making a Difference in Student Learning is grounded in the realities and complexities found in today's schools Acclaimed authors Gene E Hall Linda F Quinn and Donna M Gollnick thoroughly prepare readers to make a difference as teachers presenting firsthand stories and evidence based practices while offering a student centered approach to learning The authors focus on how to address one of the biggest challenges facing many of today's schools ensuring that all students are learning and help teachers prioritize student learning as their primary focus From true to life challenges that future teachers will face such as high stakes testing reduced funding low retention and Common Core State Standards to the inspiration and joy they will experience throughout their teaching careers the Third Edition paints an importantly authentic picture of the real life of a teacher

Psychological perspectives on expertise Guillermo Campitelli, Michael H Connors, Merim Bilalić, David Zachary Hambrick, 2015-05-19 Experts are persons who are very knowledgeable about or skillful in a particular area The aim of this Research Topic is to advance knowledge in the understanding of the phenomenon of expertise by putting together different lines of research that directly or indirectly study expertise Herbert Simon's expertise studies initiated two lines of research One is interested in elucidating the cognitive processes underlying expertise and the other investigates how expertise develops These lines of research started with studies comparing experts and novices in chess and then they extended to numerous areas of expertise such as music medical diagnosis sports arts and sciences In the field of judgment and decision making researchers investigate the quality of judgments and decisions of experts in different professions e.g. clinical psychologists medical practitioners judges meteorologists stock brokers Those lines of research explicitly investigate the topic of expertise but there are other research areas that make a substantial contribution to understanding expertise Scholars in language acquisition and in face perception for example investigate cognitive processes and development of expertise in areas in which almost everyone becomes an expert Furthermore skill acquisition research informs in detail about short term cognitive changes that may be important to understand how expertise develops We are interested in original research that advances knowledge in the understanding of decision making cognitive processes and development of expertise in sports intellectual games arts scientific disciplines and professions as well as expertise in cognitive abilities such as perception memory attention language and imagery We are also interested in theoretical articles in any of these areas articles that describe computational or mathematical models of expertise and articles offering a framework that would guide expertise research Articles that offer integrative approaches of some of the areas described above are strongly encouraged The goal of this Research Topic is to produce a hallmark piece of work in the field of expertise which complements and does not overlap with the Neural implementations of expertise Research Topic in Frontiers in Human Neuroscience

Linguistic Influences on Mathematical Cognition Ann Dowker, Hans-Christoph Nuerk, 2017-06-16 For many years an abstract amodal semantic magnitude representation largely independent of verbal linguistic representations has been viewed as the core numerical or mathematical representation This assumption has been substantially challenged in recent years Linguistic properties affect not only verbal representations of numbers but also numerical magnitude representation spatial magnitude representations calculation parity representation place value representation and even early number acquisition Thus we postulate that numerical and arithmetic processing are not fully independent of linguistic processing This is not to say that in patients magnitude processing cannot function independently of linguistic processing we just suppose these functions are connected in the functioning brain So far much research about linguistic influences on numerical cognition has simply demonstrated that language influences number without investigating the level at which a particular language influence operates After an overview we present new findings on language influences on seven language levels Conceptual Conceptual properties of language Syntactic The grammatical structure of languages beyond the word level influences Semantic The semantic meaning or existence of words Lexical The lexical composition of words in particular number words Visuo spatial orthographic Orthographic properties such as the writing reading direction of a language Phonological Phonological phonetic properties of languages Other language related skills Verbal working memory and other cognitive skills related to language representations We hope that this book provides a new and structured overview on the exciting influences of linguistic processing on numerical cognition at almost all levels of language processing
