Campbell, 2003-07-31

While the Clinton Administration and federal agencies were busy making government cost less and work better in the near term the United States Air Force was regularly visualizing the competencies needed to assure the organization s long term effectiveness As a result of steady efforts to prepare for the future conducted under successive secretaries and chiefs of staff the Air Force has developed a distinctive approach to strategic planning This approach is fundamentally concerned with ensuring that the organization s future capabilities support effective performance of future tasks Such tasks are shaped by ever changing policy objectives and circumstances of implementation After eight years the Air Force has not only successfully refined its distinctive approach to strategic planning but has also leveraged change in programmatic decisions human resource management and operational technologies This study provides an inside look at how the Air Force came to formulate and declare its strategic intent for developing the organization s capabilities over a timeline of more than twenty years Air Force strategic intent is not a plan but a shared commitment to strengthening specific core competencies and critical future capabilities Michael Barzelay and Colin Campbell reveal how one of the nation s most significant public organizations has reassessed its own strategic intent Drawing lessons from the Air Force experience this book provides a significant contribution to public management research on innovation and executive leadership One key lesson is that preparing for the future is a responsibility that organizations can discharge effectively if they combine insights with practical knowledge of executive leadership and the dynamics of policy change Preparing for the Future provides a fresh argument about innovation and leadership in public management while breaking new ground in the analysis of managerial practices such as strategic v on brilliant display in this anthology of works exploring the means to finding certainty in an impermanent and interdependent world Here descendants of the great Tsongkhapa plumb the nature of knowing to harness it in the service of awakening This volume includes translations of three separate Tibetan works by iconic figures in the Geluk school of Buddhism The first work Banisher of Ignorance is by Khedrup Gelek Palsang 1385 1438 and the second On Preclusion and Relationship is by Gyaltsab Darma Rinchen 1364 1432 The authors popularly known as Khedrup Je and Gyaltsab Je were the foremost disciples of the Geluk school founder Tsongkhapa Losang Drakpa 1357 1419 The third text Mighty Pramana Sun is a commentary on the first chapter of Candrakirti s Clear Words Prasannapada by Jamyang Shepa 1648 1721 These works concern themselves primarily with the Buddhist theory of knowledge the means by which we are able to know things and how we can be certain of that knowledge Encapsulating this theory is the notion of pramana the Buddhist understanding of which was shaped most significantly by the Indian masters Dignaga fifth to sixth century and Dharmakirti seventh century Based on their explanation pramana is often translated as valid cognition a literal reference to the kind of cognition that they proposed could be relied upon to supply indisputable knowledge In the Buddhist Pramana tradition rigorous reasoning is held to play a crucial role in gaining such knowledge and there is no better exemplar of the sophistication this endeavor achieved in Tibet than Khedrup Je s work here He systematically catalogs and rebuts a host of views with unmatched acumen and flair All three works illustrate how those who follow the tradition have viewed the systematic approach as necessary not only for textual analysis for those seeking to unravel the complexities of the Indian Buddhist scriptures and treatises but also for practitioners aiming to progress along the spiritual path and achieve the highest Buddhist goals Stone; an Illustrated Magazine ,1888
