Macau Christina Miu Bing Cheng,1999-06-01 Macau on the threshold of the twentieth first century is perhaps a harbinger of a new urban culture Having been nurtured by the sharply constraasting legacies of China and Portugal this unique city manages to meld cultural differences and avoid the destructiveness of ethnic clashes It is thus likened here to the Roman deity Janus who is usually depicted with two faces looking in opposite directions By concentrating on the ambivalent history of Macau the author reveals the historical reality of cultural vacillation between two political entities and the emergence of a creole minority the Macanese With a judicious use of English Chinese and Portuguese sources she has provided a pathbreaking multi focal perspective of the last Portuguese outpost in Asia In light of the decolonization of Macau in December 1999 the author s analysis challenges the easy assumptions of the causal sequence colonialism postcolonialism and opens up an interdisciplinary purview of a local instance in cross cultural studies

Religious Resistance to Neoliberalism Keri Day,2016-04-29 Religious Resistance to Neoliberalism offers compelling and intersectional religious critiques of neoliberalism Neoliberalism is the normative rationality of contemporary global capitalism that orders people to live by the generalized principle of competition in all social spheres of life Keri Day asserts that neoliberalism and its moral orientations consequently breed radical distrust lovelessness disconnection and alienation within society She argues that engaging black feminist and womanist religious perspectives with Jewish and Christian discourses offers more robust critiques of a neoliberal economy Employing womanist and black feminist religious perspectives this book provides six theoretical theologically constructive arguments to challenge the moral fragmentation associated with global markets It strives to envision a pragmatic politics of hope
