When multiple forces act on an object, they combine to produce a net force, which determines whether the object speeds up, slows down, or changes direction. Understanding how forces act together is essential to explaining various observations from a physics world, such as a ball's trajectory or a car's acceleration. Newton's second law of motion states that the acceleration of an object is directly proportional to the net force acting on it and inversely proportional to its mass. This means that if the net force increases, the acceleration increases proportionally, but if the mass increases, the acceleration decreases proportionally for a given force. Forces also interact to determine the stability of an object. For example, a book sitting on a table is held in place by the normal force of the table pushing up and the weight of the book pulling down. If these forces are balanced, the book remains stationary. If the forces are unbalanced, the book will accelerate. Understanding how forces interact is essential to explaining many physical phenomena, from a car's acceleration to a ball's trajectory.  Answer the questions that follow. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Which of the following is NOT a type of contact force? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Friction Push Gravity Pull Which of the following is NOT a type of contact force? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Friction Push Gravity Pull Which of the following is NOT a type of contact force? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Friction Push Gravity Pull Which of the following is NOT a type of contact force? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> Friction Push Gravity Pull
