Black Out In Gretley:

Blackout in Gretley John Boynton Priestley, 1951 Blackout in Gretley (Valancourt 20th Century Classics) J B Priestley, 2021-08-17 Humphrey Neyland is a middle aged Canadian engineer recruited by British Intelligence to go undercover in the industrial city of Gretley where aircraft essential to the war effort are being produced and where it is feared Nazi agents and saboteurs are lurking Almost everyone he meets in Gretley seems to have a double life and a secret agenda and it doesn't take long before Neyland is caught up in a web of murder and deceit in this sleepy town where death lurks around every corner Originally published during the height of World War II J B Priestley's classic spy thriller Blackout in Gretley 1942 is both a highly entertaining page turner and a fascinating window into British life during the war This new edition joins ten other Priestley novels published by Valancourt and reveals yet another side of one of the most popular English authors of the 20th century J B Priestley is one of our literary icons of the 20th century And it is time that we all became reacquainted with his genius Judi Dench A master craftsman at spinning a yarn But Blackout in Gretley is more than a spy hunting story It is Priestley's ardent declaration of the things that England is fighting for The New York Times

objective guarantees a people that needs to be assembled or imagined a people that is always yet to come is at the heart of literary engagements with the idea of socialism in Britain Across fictional and creative explorations of left wing politics from the nineteenth century ideological contexts which eventually gave rise to mass socialist movements at the beginning of the twentieth century to early twenty first century recreations of radical politics what transpires is an impulse both to expand the discursive forms and identities of socialism and to disengage them from any given or fixed socio economic position

Millions Like Us? Nick Hayes,Jeff Hill,1999-04-01 This collection of essays brings together the latest historical research on cultural production and reception during the Second World War Its starting point is how this war was presented to and understood by contemporaries and how they differentiated it from earlier conflicts Although this was particularly noticeable in the construction of ideas of inclusiveness and commonality where the people pulled together to secure victory and a socially equitable peace the essays also seek to explore the diversity of institutional and personal experiences Essays look at major national institutions and industries such as the recently formed BBC the culturally diverse and rapidly expanding commercial press and the British film industry The collection explores the role of the individual agent with studies on established writers and composers and how each related to the collective rationales of wartime Penrod Booth
