

Black Theology in the Making

J. Deotis Roberts, Sr.

The Definitions

Theology is logos of theos — reasoning about God. Thinking about God includes God's action in creation and history. "God" implies creation, providence, and redemption. Man is God's creative masterpiece. God as love creates a being capable of an independent love-response. Among the creatures, man alone has the moral, intellectual, and spiritual capacity to fulfill a loving relationship with the "Maker of Heaven and Earth." He is co-creator with God, the Lord of All Creation.

MacQuarrie is correct. Theology may begin with the divine existence, or it may begin with human existence. Either way we have to do with God. ¹

William Temple called our attention to the necessity of bringing "nature" into the theological discourse. He makes the point that Christianity is the most materialistic of all religions in that the center of our faith is the Incarnation, the Word made Flesh. This inhistorization of the Word, this enfleshment of the Logos, indicates that God has a high regard for his creation. It is in and through this order that He breaks through with the highest revelation of His redemptive purpose in the world. ²

Theology is a discipline of interpretation. We are concerned with nature, man, and God—how God creates, sustains, and redeems in creation and history.

Revelation is the process of unveiling. Revelation is the divine self-manifestation or self-disclosure. God's word is for man. I agree with Brunner ³ that man is addressable. Revelation, in order to complete its process, must have a revealer and a revealee. Revelation is transcendent and immanent; it is ontological and existential; it is objective and subjective. Revelation comes to the human order from the divine order which is the Beyond within. The integrity of the self contains knowledge and freedom. Man is free to respond to God's revelation in terms of obedience or disobedience.

Experience is the receptacle and the repository of revelation. God reveals His mind and will to men in the situation where they exist—their Sitz im

A Black Political Theology James Deotis Roberts, 2005-01-01 Originally published Philadelphia Westminster Press 1974

The Prophethood of Black Believers James Deotis Roberts, 1994-01-01 This valuable resource from one of the founding fathers of the black theology movement discusses how to minister to the black community Using an interdisciplinary approach J Deotis Roberts shows how theological concepts can be applied to education pastoral care and political and economic issues

Liberation and Reconciliation James Deotis Roberts, 2005-01-01 First released in 1971 Liberation and Reconciliation presents a constructive statement that argues for a balance between the quest for liberation and the need for reconciliation in black white relations Examining biblical and theological themes from the perspectives of black experience the book focuses on enlisting all humans of goodwill black or white in the cause of racial justice Roberts concludes that nonviolent reconciliation is the best response to racial oppression This groundbreaking work now a classic in the field is recognized as one of the first texts to move conversations within black theology beyond what black theologians were against toward what the movement sought to affirm

Black Theology USA and South Africa Dwight N. Hopkins, 2005-12-01 Black theology continually poses a challenge to Christian witness and faith Through a critical analysis of leading religious thinkers Dwight N Hopkins explores the fundamental differences and similarities between black theology in the United States and black theology in South Africa and asks What is the common denominator between the two Part I examines the historical political cultural and theological background of contemporary black theology in both countries Hopkins delves into the distinctive situation of each country focusing on civil rights black power and related political cultural and theological themes in the United States and on civil disobedience black consciousness the unity of politics and culture and political cultural theological themes in South Africa Through interviews with leading black religious scholars Part II explores these theologies in depth Contrasting the cultural theological trend with the political theological trend in the USA Hopkins explores the ideas of theologians Albert B Cleage James H Cone J Deotis Roberts William R Jones Gayraud S Wilmore Charles H Long Cecil W Cone and Vincent Harding In Part III Hopkins examines the same two trends cultural theological and political theological in South Africa Here the focus is on the impact of black consciousness and Soweto and the works of Manas Buthelezi Allan Boesak Simon S Maimela Frank Chikane Bonganjalo C Goba Itumeleng J Mosala Takatso A Mofokeng and Desmond M Tutu Part IV brings black theology USA and black theology South Africa into dialogue Hopkins locates the common denominator between the two theologies that they both claim the Christian gospel as the gospel of liberation for black people struggling against racism and for a holistic humanity physically and spiritually politically and culturally He concludes by looking toward future areas of development and collaboration arguing that an effective black theology of liberation must integrate politics and culture insuring that the two are equal and complementary two tributaries within the same current

Dread and Pentecostal Robert Beckford, 2011-07-01 In this authoritative and passionately argued book Robert Beckford explores the future of Black British Pentecostalism in a society where the notion of White supremacy even in faith is all too evident Drawing on Black womanist and post colonial theologies of liberation he urges the Black Church to regain its traditional prophetic role as part of its ministry He suggests that the Caribbean s first liberation theology Rastafari has much to offer all Christians concerned with speaking prophetically into social and political life in Britain Reflecting on aspects of Rastafari Black Pentecostalism and the meaning of Jesus in the world today he develops a new model for a Black political faith a Dread Pentecostal theology

The Rise and Demise of Black Theology Alistair Kee, 2006 Black Theology emerged in the 1960s as a response to black consciousness In South Africa it is a critique of power in the UK it is a political theology of black culture The dominant form of Black Theology has been in the USA originally influenced by Black Power and the critique of white racism Since then it claims to have broadened its perspective to include oppression on the grounds of race gender and class In this book Alistair Kee contests this claim especially by Womanist black women Theology Black and Womanist Theologies present inadequate analyses of race and gender and no account at all of class economic oppression With a few notable exceptions Black Theology in the USA repeats the mantras of the 1970s the discourse of modernity Content with American capitalism it fails to address the source of the impoverishment of black Americans at home Content with a romantic imaginary of Africa this African American movement fails to defend contemporary Africa against predatory American global ambitions

Religion of the Field Negro Vincent W. Lloyd, 2017-11-07 Black theology has lost its direction To reclaim its original power and to advance racial justice struggles today black theology must fully embrace blackness and theology But multiculturalism and religious pluralism have boxed in black theology forcing it to speak in terms dictated by a power structure founded on white supremacy In Religion of the Field Negro Vincent W Lloyd advances and develops black theology immodestly privileging the perspective of African Americans and employing a distinctively theological analysis As Lloyd argues secularism is entangled with the disciplining impulses of modernity with neoliberal economics and with Western imperialism but it also contaminates and castrates black theology Inspired by critics of secularism in other fields Religion of the Field Negro probes the subtle ways in which religion is excluded and managed in black culture Using Barack Obama Huey Newton and Steve Biko as case studies it shows how the criticism of secularism is the prerequisite of all criticism and it shows how criticism and grassroots organizing must go hand in hand But scholars of secularism too often ignore race and scholars of race too often ignore secularism Scholars of black theology too often ignore the theoretical insights of secular black studies scholars and race theorists too often ignore the critical insights of religious thinkers Religion of the Field Negro brings together vibrant scholarly conversations that have remained at a distance from each other until now Weaving theological sources critical theory and cultural analysis this book offers new answers to pressing questions about race and justice love and hope theorizing and organizing and the role of whites in black struggle The insights of James Cone are developed together with those of James Baldwin Sylvia Wynter and Achille Mbembe all in the service of developing a political theological vision that motivates us to challenge the racist paradigms of white supremacy Black Theology in Dialogue James Deotis Roberts, 1987-01-01 Challenging all who are concerned about religion in today's world J Deotis Roberts outlines a new way of looking at the essential questions Roberts proposes a theology concerned with concrete and specific situations that also retains a universal vision In discussing the relationship of American black thought to African liberation feminist Asian and Euro American theologies he covers significant religious issues such as love justice power and evil

Contending Notions of Liberation in Black Political Theology in South Africa Vuyani Prince Ntintili, 1992 Race and Political Theology Vincent Lloyd, 2012-04-25 In this volume senior scholars come together to explore how Jewish and African American experiences can make us think differently about the nexus of religion and politics or political theology Some wrestle with historical figures such as William Shakespeare W E B Du Bois Nazi journalist Wilhelm Stapel and Austrian historian Otto Brunner Others ponder what political theology can contribute to contemporary politics particularly relating to Israel's complicated religious racial national identity and to the religious currents in African American politics Race and Political Theology opens novel avenues for research in intellectual history religious studies political theory and cultural studies showing how timely questions about religion and politics must be reframed when race is taken into account The Blackwell Companion to Political Theology Peter Manley Scott, William T. Cavanaugh, 2008-04-15 Written by a team of international experts drawn from various traditions of political theology this outstanding resource brings together 35 newly commissioned essays in the field Demonstrates that Christian theology is inherently political and shows how theology impacts on present day political issues Considers the interface of theology with political ideologies including the contribution of theology to feminist ecological black and pacifist movements Assesses the contribution of the major political theologians and theological movements Explores the political aspects of Christian sources such as scripture and liturgy Examining J. Deotis Roberts', 'A Black Political Theology', as an Approach to Address the Complexity of the Present Future Frederick L. Smith, 2021 Exploring the works of J Deotis Roberts this paper analyzes his relevancy and contribution to the theological discourse on black theology The paper further examines the framework of black political theology as defined by J Deotis Roberts and how the theological method merges with full spectrum thinking and Marxist theory to address the socio economic and political dilemmas The paper seeks to articulate a vision for the church and society utilization of black political theology accompanied by progressive Marxist theory as a social analysis tool to critique capitalism and envision a just and equitable future Baptist Political Theology Thomas S. Black Religion, Black Theology James Deotis Roberts, 2003-05-22 J Deotis Roberts former president of the Interdenominational Theological Center in Atlanta Ga has been a particularly influential modern American theologian and somewhat of a moderate among African American religious figures This collection of essays traces the development of his thought and in particular his model of liberation reconciliation

Being Black, Teaching Black Nancy Lynne Westfield, 2010-10-01 In this volume a group of eminent African American scholars of religious and theological studies examine the problems and prospects of black scholarship in the theological academy They assess the role that prominent black scholars have played in transforming the study and teaching of religion and theology the need for a more thorough going incorporation of the fruits of black scholarship into the mainstream of the academic study of religion and the challenges and opportunities of bringing black art black intellectual thought and black culture into predominantly white classrooms and institutions

Introducing Black Theology of Liberation Dwight N. Hopkins, 1999 A book that reviews the principles of modern Black Theology its roots and contributions to the Christian world It also discusses what challenges Black theologians face in their minister and their religious communities

Liberation and Reconciliation James Deotis Roberts, 1971

We Are One Voice Simon S. Maimela, Dwight N. Hopkins, 2017-11-03 Black theology of liberation in the USA and South Africa SA both began from the mid 1960s to the early 1970s They carried the energy of the youth who were eager to change the world so that all peoples would enjoy life and live as neighbors. Legal racial laws still existed in parts of the US in the mid 1960s. And apartheid laws on separation of races were as normal and accepted as breathing air. Given the major racial divides and the presence of human differences in all of society, concerned individuals in both countries realized that religious practice or the study of religion could not be done separate from the everyday lives of ordinary people. In response to racial laws, blacks created a vibrant renaissance of black culture and organizations. Song, stories, histories, and coalitions flourished. Blacks of all classes became energized and participated in a rebirth of what it meant to be black. What was a true citizenship rooted in justice. In fact, it was a profound striving to produce a new vision of the US and South Africa. Deep and broad hope filled these communities and many throughout both countries. Black religious leaders and ordinary people of faith were heavily impacted by this bubbling and creative black renaissance. The founders of black liberation theology in both countries emerged out of this larger movement to redefine what is a healthy community with healthy individuals. In recent years, USA and SA have had their first black elected presidents, i.e. Nelson Mandela and Barack Obama. Such historic and amazing developments show strides in both countries across the Atlantic. Yet the economic success after US legal segregation and SA apartheid seemed to have gone primarily to only the top 5 percent of black people. The republication of We Are One Voice is still needed today. Questions of poor and working people, women's rights, and the importance of connecting spirituality and faith to culture, politics, and economics are even more pressing in the twenty-first century than they were in the last.

King, X, and the American Soul: A Study in Political Theology and Power
Kehinde Ojo, 2025-09-28

King X and the American Soul: A Study in Political Theology and Power explores Martin Luther King Jr and Malcolm X as two of the most powerful prophetic voices of the twentieth century. Though often portrayed as opposites, King the dreamer of love and reconciliation, Malcolm the militant voice of dignity and fire, this book reveals their deeper convergence as theologians of liberation. Drawing on sermons, speeches, and writings, Kehinde Ojo places King's vision of the Beloved Community in dialogue with Malcolm's global vision of Pan Africanism and Islamic solidarity. Their ideas are examined through the lenses of Christian theology, Islamic thought, Black liberation movements, and contemporary struggles such as Black Lives Matter. At its core, the book argues that memory is resurrection. King rises wherever nonviolence challenges injustice. Malcolm rises wherever dignity is defended by any means necessary. Together they offer a political theology of dream and fire, cross and crescent that still confronts racism, empire, and inequality in the 21st century. This work is essential reading for scholars, students, activists, clergy, and general readers seeking to understand how faith traditions can inspire justice today. With its blend of theology, history, and political analysis, it stands alongside classics in Black theology and liberation thought while offering fresh insights for a new generation.
