

Populist Revolt Spreading Across the West

By Alex Newman

All over the world, the peasants and the tax serfs are getting restless. That is the message that voters are sending loud and clear. From Argentina, Brazil, and India to the United States, Italy, Sweden, the Netherlands, and beyond, politically incorrect populist leaders and political parties are surging at the polls. In many cases, they are becoming the dominant political force as awareness grows surrounding the "Great Reset" and other totalitarian schemes from Big Business and Big Government elitists, as mentioned in previous articles.

Consumers are revolting against the Zeitgeist, too. Just consider the powerful messages being sent to "woke" companies like Target, Bud Light, Disney, and BlackRock, among others, in the form of boycotts, withdrawing investments, and more. In short, Americans and people around the world are sick and tired of having anti-social ideas shoved down their throats. And the trends look set to accelerate in the years ahead.

The signs were already obvious in 2016 — at least to those paying attention. It began in the summer in Britain when voters, in defiance of the entire political and media class, voted to secede from the increasingly aggressive superstate known as the European Union. After decades of abuse at the hands of EU bureaucrats and uncontrolled immigration, voters had enough and said so, risking the doom and gloom predicted by disgraced Prime Minister David Cameron and others.

A Revolution Gone Backward Bess Beatty,1987-04-23 While newly liberated American blacks were relatively free to participate in the nation s political life during the decade following the Civil War with the end of Reconstruction and the withdrawal of federal protection constitutional guarantees quickly were curtailed In this analysis of the beginnings of black political development Beatty examines the aftermath of Reconstruction through the eyes of a people who found their rights liberties and hopes stalemated in a revolution gone backward The Louisiana Populist Movement, 1881-1900 Donna A. Barnes,2011-05-18 The Populist movement of the late nineteenth century represents one of the largest third party challenges in American history Throughout the South widespread drops in crop prices led to agrarian revolt which contributed to the movement s popularity Yet in the largely rural state of Louisiana despite the political group s focus on empowering distressed farmers this challenge proved far less successful In Donna A Barnes s The Louisiana Populist Movement the question of ineffectuality makes an intriguing political case study of the Pelican State and Populism Emerging in the 1890s as the political wing of the Southern Farmers Alliance the Populists or People s Party garnered the support of millions of rural southerners But the affiliated Louisiana party struggled to spread beyond a limited number of parishes in the northern and central part of the state According to Barnes the movement s relatively poor mobilization record provides an excellent opportunity to explore factors that impede social growth Most scholars she contends often focus on the emergence and rise of successful political organizations and overlook the valuable observations to be found within less successful movements such as Louisiana Populism In her evaluation Barnes points to racial division as the factor that undermined the Populist cause in Louisiana The Democratic Party saw the agenda of the Populist movement as a threat to white supremacy and thus when paired with the 1898 state constitution that disfranchised poor rural whites and most blacks predestined the People's Party to poor public reception. Based on an array of archival research, Barnes's study offers the definitive source for the history of the Louisiana Populist Movement as well as a multidimensional theoretical analysis of the factors behind the movement's failure.

Passing Glances Jan Collins Stucker, Pat Black, Bob McMahon, Frank Adams, Andrew Yale, Jason Berry, Ralph Ellison, Julia Fields, Jackson Hill, Alexis Krasilovsky, George Mitchell, Patricia W. Goodman, Malcolm Jones, Fredric Tulsky, Julia Kirk Blackwelder, William Chafe, Jim Lee, Bob Williams, Who exactly them or me first came up with the idea I'm not certain. No matter. The Institute for Southern Studies staff asked if I would take out six months to travel the South as a reporter for the Institute's then new syndicated weekly column Facing South. Captive to Southern fondness for poking about the region and to that larger American myth about freedom deriving from travel, I claimed the job before any list of applicants could be gotten up. A new van was purchased and fitted out with a bed, typing stand, CB and regular AM-FM radio, specially cut mosquito netting and a fan. The Institute's charge dictated that I'd see the rural South, not too much of the Interstate-urbanized South. Places like Ville Platte, Louisiana; Ink, Arkansas; Ripley, Mississippi; Pickens, South Carolina; and Fincastle, Virginia. The blessings of this constraint came vividly to mind when my path intersected an Interstate cloverleaf in Georgia, typically crammed with service stations, motels, and fast-food franchises. Over the door of one eatery hung a banner proclaiming "Join the Fun, Eat and Run." All told, I logged nearly 28,000 miles between May and October 1977. I kept an eye out for the little things. Graffiti, for example. In the rest room of a Charlottesville, Virginia, vegetarian restaurant, I found "Mother made me a homosexual." Below, in another's writing, "Fantastic. If I bought her the yarn, would she make me one?" Or signs like one on a New Orleans building: "Straight Business College." And listened for larger themes, not at all certain I could hear them, but knowing that these too were a Southern tradition going back at least to the days of Fannie Kemble's Journal of a Residence on a Georgia Plantation in 1838-1839, the powerful attack on slavery and William Byrd's History of the Dividing Line Between Virginia and North Carolina, the travel log some assert first described the good ol' boy.

In the Lion's Mouth
Omar H. Ali, 2011-02-03. Following the collapse of Reconstruction in 1877, African Americans organized a movement distinct from the white Populist movement in the South and parts of the Midwest for economic and political reform. Black Populism, between 1886 and 1898, tens of thousands of black farmers, sharecroppers, and agrarian workers created their own organizations and tactics, primarily under black leadership. As Black Populism grew as a regional force, it met fierce resistance from the Southern Democrats and constituent white planters and local merchants. African Americans carried out a wide range of activities in this hostile environment: They established farming exchanges and cooperatives, raised money for schools, published newspapers, lobbied for better agrarian legislation, mounted boycotts against agricultural trusts and business monopolies, carried out strikes for better wages, protested the convict lease system, segregated coach boxes, and lynching, demanded black jurors in cases involving black defendants, promoted local political reforms, and federal supervision of elections and ran independent and fusion campaigns Growing out of the networks established by black churches and fraternal organizations Black Populism found further expression in the Colored Agricultural Wheels the southern branch of the Knights of Labor the Cooperative Workers of America the Farmers Union and the Colored Farmers Alliance In the early 1890s African Americans together with their white counterparts launched the People s Party and ran fusion campaigns with the Republican Party By the turn of the century Black Populism had been crushed by relentless attack hostile propaganda and targeted assassinations of leaders and foot soldiers of the movement The movement s legacy remains though as the largest independent black political movement until the rise of the modern civil rights movement

Kenneth and John B. Rayner and the Limits of Southern Dissent Gregg Cantrell,1993 In this fascinating story of two nineteenth century southern political mavericks Gregg Cantrell details their fate as dissenters telling a human story at once heroic and shameful hopeful and tragic The two mavericks were the slaveholding congressman and planter Kenneth Rayner of North Carolina and his illegitimate mulatto son John B Rayner of Texas Born in 1808 Kenneth served in the North Carolina legislature for twenty years and in Congress for six as a Whig In 1854 he became a major leader of the American Know Nothing party His staunch Unionism and a willingness to cooperate with Republicans incurred the wrath of his fellow southerners After supporting secession working for a peace settlement during the war writing a biography of Andrew Johnson and going broke in a grandiose cotton planting venture he joined the Republican party and held federal offices in the Grant Hayes Garfield and Arthur administrations Kenneth Rayner s son John was born in 1850 His mother was a slave The elder Rayner acknowledged his paternity and provided a college education John held local offices in North Carolina during Reconstruction then led a migration of black farmworkers to Texas in 1880 There he preached taught school and took part in his adopted state s prohibition battles A master orator he joined the Populist party in 1892 and soon became its preeminent black leader After the turn of the century blacks were disfranchised and Rayner like his father before him found his political career in ruins He spent the rest of his days working for black education and trying to preserve some voice for blacks in southern politics Both men were out of step with the rapidlychanging politics of their time Each eventually compromised his principles and personal dignity in futile efforts to salvage a way of life that earlier actions had jeopardized Both were devoted to traditional republican principles which estranged them from the South s major political parties In the end however their political careers Kenneth s in North Carolina and John s in Texas were destroyed by their adherence to unacceptably liberal positions on the issue of race a topic that indeed constituted the limit of southern dissent

Gin, Jesus, and Jim Crow Brendan J. J. Payne,2022-04-20 In Gin Jesus and Jim Crow Brendan J J Payne reveals how prohibition helped realign the racial and religious order in the South by linking restrictions on alcohol with political preaching and the disfranchisement of Black voters While both sides invoked Christianity prohibitionists redefined churches doctrines practices and political engagement White prohibitionists initially courted Black voters in the 1880s but soon dismissed them as hopelessly wet and sought to disfranchise them stoking fears of drunken Black men defiling white women in their efforts to reframe alcohol restriction as a means of racial control Later as the alcohol industry grew desperate it turned to Black voters many of whom joined the brewers to preserve their voting rights and maintain personal liberties Tracking southern debates about alcohol from the 1880s through the 1930s Payne shows that prohibition only retreated from the region once the racial and religious order it helped enshrine had been secured Populism, Its Rise and Fall William Alfred Peffer, 1992 Peffer s memoir describes the development of Populism the political maneuverings and campaign practices of the People s Party the effect of the famous silver movement on the critical election of 1896 and the behind the scenes conflict that ultimately led to the dissolution of America s last great third party The Populist Movement in Georgia Alex Mathews Arnett, 1922 Southern Exposure ,1978 The Alabama Review ,1992 African-Americans and the Right to Vote Paul Finkelman, 1992 The Populist Movement and the Cooperative Stewart Burns, 1984 The Black Press in the Middle West, 1865-1985 Henry Lewis Suggs, 1996 This is the first comprehensive examination of the Black press in the Middle West It rewrites the history of the Middle West and proves that Blacks were not only present but that they helped to shape the history character and political agenda of the region the Populist Revolt ,1931 In the Lion's Mouth Omar Hamid Ali, 2010 Following the collapse of Reconstruction in 1877 African Americans organized a movement distinct from the white Populist movement in the South and parts of the Midwest for economic and political reform Black Populism Between 1886 and 1898 tens of thousands of black farmers sharecroppers and agrarian workers created their own organizations and tactics primarily under black leadership As Black Populism grew as a regional force it met fierce resistance from the Southern Democrats and constituent white planters and local merchants African Americans carried out a wide range of activities in this hostile environment They established farming exchanges and cooperatives raised money for schools published newspapers lobbied for better agrarian legislation mounted boycotts against agricultural trusts and business monopolies carried out strikes for better wages protested the convict lease system segregated coach boxes and lynching demanded black jurors in cases involving black defendants promoted local political reforms and federal supervision of elections and ran independent and fusion campaigns Growing out of the networks established by black churches and fraternal organizations Black Populism found further expression in the Colored Agricultural Wheels the southern branch of the Knights of Labor the Cooperative Workers of America the Farmers Union and the Colored Farmers Alliance In the early 1890s African Americans together with their white counterparts launched the People s Party and ran fusion campaigns with the Republican Party By the turn of the century Black Populism had been crushed by relentless attack hostile propaganda and targeted assassinations of leaders and foot soldiers of the movement The movement s legacy remains though as the largest independent black political movement until the rise of the modern civil rights movement The Kaiser Index to Black Resources, 1948-1986: O-S, 1992 Encyclopedia of Black America W.
