Britain's Wonderful Air Force. Edited by ... P.F.M. Fellowes, Etc. [With Illustrations.]. Peregrine Forbes Morant Fellowes,1942 Britain's wonderful Air Force P. F. M. Fellowes,1944 Britain's Wonderful Air Force Fellowes,

Britain's Wonderful Fighting Forces Ellison Hawks,1940 Fighter! Fighter! Corkscrew Port! Pat Cunningham,2012-04-19 The young men who flew with RAF Bomber Command in World War Two were a complex mixture of individuals but they all shared the gift of teamwork A crew of seven may have comprised all non commissioned men and some crews included commissioned officers but not always flying as pilots The outstanding fact was that each man relied on every other member of his crew to return from each mission safely This book contains ten intriguing reminiscences of bomber aircrew some were pilots others navigators flight engineers bomb aimers or gunners They flew as both commissioned or NCO airmen Understandably a common problem was that of coping with fear Many former aircrew hold that anyone who claims to have felt no fear on operations is either lying or has allowed the years to blank out that fear But there are a few who do maintain that they never felt afraid For the majority though handling fear was something to be worked out by the individual Some hit the bottle others womanized to excess others tightened the gut and bit the lip or drew the curtain and focused upon the plotting table or the wireless set The passing years may have silvered what hair remains dulled the eye that formerly registered on the merest speck lent a quiver to the hand that once controlled the stick penciled in the track manipulated the tuning dial set the bombsight tapped the gauge or rotated the turret And yet for all the attributes of age their irrepressible youthfulness shines through BRITISH WAR FILMS, 1939 - 45 S. P. Mackenzie,2001-01-01 The cinema was the most popular form of entertainment during the Second World War Film was a critically important medium for influencing opinion Films such as In Which We Serve and One of Our Aircraft is Missing shaped the British people s perceptions of the conflict British War Films 1939 45 is an account of the feature films produced during the war rather than government documentaries and official propaganda making the book an important index of British morale and values at a time of desperate national crisis The Fear in the Sky Pat Cunningham,2012-09-19 A vivid account of the experiences of 10 men who volunteered to risk their lives on air operations during World War II Pennant Magazine A profound respect for the RAF aircrews of the Second World War led aviation historian Pat Cunningham DFM to record the experiences of ten men who volunteered to risk their lives on air operations for some time Britain s only effective method of striking back These young men came from disparate backgrounds but having qualified in their specialist categories were skillfully merged as interdependent crew members A staggering 8 305 of the 55 573 men killed in RAF Bomber Command alone died in accidents showing that enemy action was only one of the hazards aircrews faced Others included technical malfunctions notwithstanding that each had implicit faith in their supporting ground personnel The constant pressure to get aircrews operational saw many completing the required thirty bombing sorties with less than 500 hours experience Even so they were required to navigate over hostile blackened terrain in uncertain weather and with few radio aids in machines packed with highly volatile substances. Hardly surprising then that fear was a concomitant of the job. I was scared throughout every single operation, says one, and if any operational aircrew member says different, I'd say they were either liars or that age has mellowed their memories. Bomber Command experiences over Central Europe feature largely but also included maritime operations to furnish the all-important meteorological reports, two-crew airborne interception radar sorties, virtual suicide attacks by outmoded torpedo bombers against enemy capital ships, operations in support of the Chindits Long Range Penetration Force in Burma, and German POW incarceration that culminated with a three-month death march ahead of the advancing Soviets. The crew is the essential element throughout, yet as the narratives show, not all gelled seamlessly. Surprisingly, however, individual traits actually strengthened the bond and gave every aircrew its special quality. Praise for The Fear in the Sky: An assembly of ten autobiographical accounts by Bomber Command aircrew retelling of their experiences, and very hairy many of them are. There are many personal touches drawn from their first forays in uniform right up to the end of their tour of duty, sometimes in a German POW camp. The stories make a lively read. The Bulletin Canadian Aviation, 1943. From Sapper to Spitfire by Sally-Anne Greville Heygate, 2015-08-31. David Greville Heygate was one of the few men who served in both the army and the Royal Air Force during the Second World War, but it was in the sky that he really earned his stripes. Stalking the skies flying photo reconnaissance missions with No 16 Squadron over Northern France, he was to win the illustrious and highly coveted Distinguished Flying Cross (DFC). Another highlight saw him in action in the skies above the French coastline in preparation for the D-Day landings, taking photographs that would provide the allies with essential intelligence upon which to base their plans. Based in Holland in December 1944, David flew armed reconnes with No 168 Squadron, then transferred to No 2 Squadron where he reported on troop movements behind German lines. During the course of a dynamic and eventful career, he flew a wide variety of iconic wartime aircraft, including Lysanders, Mustangs, Typhoons, and Spitfires, in England, the Netherlands, and Germany. Although there have been many stories about the Battle of Britain, there has been less published about the life of a photo reconnaissance pilot during this time. David's thrilling exploits in the sky and the part he played within the context of the wider war are enlivened here to great effect by his daughter, Sally-Anne Greville Heygate, herself a professional photographer. Using snippets from diary entries, letters, logbooks, squadron records, and other documents, she has managed to construct an engaging history of a talented photo reconnaissance pilot and the war in which he fought.

Spitfire! Dilip Sarkar, 2019-09-30. A really excellent, detailed, comprehensive, and moving history of 19 Squadron RAF during the Second World War, from the author of Arnhem 1944: Clash of Steel. As a child, Dilip Sarkar was fascinated by the haunting image of an anonymous RAF Spitfire pilot, taken minutes after landing from a Battle of Britain combat. This was Squadron Leader Brian Lane, DFC, the commander of 19 Squadron based at Fowlmere. Deeply moving was the discovery that in 1942, Brian was reported missing after a futile nuisance raid over the Dutch coast. During the mid-1980s, Dilip began researching the life and times of both Brian Lane and 19 Squadron forging close friendships with many of the unit's surviving Battle of Britain pilots and support staff Nearly thirty years later sadly all of the survivors are now deceased but Dilip's close relationship has provided a huge archive of correspondence and interviews in addition to a unique photographic collection Furthermore the author a retired police detective has thoroughly investigated the life and death of Squadron Leader Lane This completely new Spitfire covers everything we would ever need to know about such a unit during the critical pre and early war period the social political aviation and military history all in one volume emphasizing the human experience involved and the stories of casualties With an immense photographic collection many published here for the first time this book is destined to become a classic The most thorough book about any squadron in RAF service during the Battle of Britain an impeccable source of information and a gripping story Most Highly Recommended Firetrench Contact! Bob Tuxford,2016-08-05 A retired RAF Squadron Leader recounts his decades of service in Cold War combat zones across the globe including his crucial role in the Falklands Joining the Royal Air Force in 1970 Bob Tuxford distinguished himself as a fighter pilot test pilot squadron leader and flying instructor In this enthralling memoir he shares his story of active service across the world Among other episodes Tuxford details his exchange tour in the US Air Force and his courageous mission during the Falklands war that earned him an Air Force Cross for Gallantry As a Victor tanker captain Tuxford had the job of executing air to air refueling operations through the 1970s and early 1980s This experience prepared him for the vital role he played in the first Black Buck mission during the Falklands campaign Tuxford was the last Victor tanker to refuel the Vulcan piloted by Martin Withers before bombing commenced on that fateful night in 1982 Later in his career Bob became the senior test pilot on the heavy aircraft test squadron at the Aircraft and Armament Experimental Establishment Boscombe Down In Contact Tuxford offers an intimate look at life in the RAF while shedding light on the importance of tanker squadrons during the Cold War Military Geoscience Peter L. Guth,2020-01-28 This book is a collection of papers presented at the 11th International Conference of Military Geoscience that was held in 2015 The conference included discussion on a diverse range of geosciences including military history military geology teaching geology from a military prospective geological influence on the battlefield and environmental and cultural issues related to management of military lands Geology and geography have played a significant role in military history from providing the stone for primitive tools and weapons to the utilization of terrain in offensive and defensive strategies Specific to this volume deserts comprise nearly a third of the Earth's surface and have been the site of numerous battles where the dust heat and a lack of food and water have provided challenges to military leaders and warriors This book examines the role of deserts in past and modern warfare the problems and challenges in managing military lands in desert regions and how desert environmental conditions can impact military equipment and personnel This proceedings volume should be of interest to scholars professionals and those interested in military history warfare geology geography cultural resources general science and military operations First

Kills Stefan W. C. Gnys, 2018-01-23 Remarkably detailed It is a tribute to Wladyslaw Gnys the decorated ace pilot but also to the charming and humble man himself Hamilton Magazine Polish pilot Wladyslaw Wladek Gnys was credited with shooting down the first two German aircraft of World War II on September 1 1939 On this day as Gnys squadron took off near Krak w to intercept the German invaders German Stuka pilot Frank Neubert attacked killing the captain Wladek who barely survived himself evaded the pursuing Stukas and went on to make the first Allied kills while Neubert was credited with the first aerial kill of the war Fifty years after the invasion of Poland in the summer of 1989 Gnys and Neubert met and shook hands making news around the world They reconciled their differences and remained friends until their deaths This event symbolized the prevailing friendly coexistence between Poland and Germany Written by his son Stefan and drawing from his logbooks this highly illustrated biography of Wladek Gnys is the most in depth account of the Polish hero s life It tells Wladek s story from his childhood in rural Poland through his time flying in three Allied air forces during World War II his capture and escape during Operation Overlord and his reconciliation with Neubert and his commemoration as a national war hero in Poland Tells the story of one man s ride through the history of most of the 20th century This is far from a run of the mill wartime story being more of a touching and revealing look into an extraordinary life Aircrew Remembered Air Pictorial ,1985
