Architecture and Fire Stamatis Zografos, 2019-06-12

Architecture and Fire develops a conceptual reassessment of architectural conservation through the study of the intimate relationship between architecture and fire Stamatis Zografos expands on the general agreement among many theorists that the primitive hut was erected around fire locating fire as the first memory of architecture at the very beginning of architectural evolution Following the introduction Zografos analyses the archive and the renewed interest in the study of archives through the psychoanalysis of Jacques Derrida He moves on to explore the ambivalent nature of fire employing the conflicting philosophies of Gaston Bachelard and Henri Bergson to do so before discussing architectural conservation and the relationship between listed buildings the function of archives and the preservation of memories from the past The following chapter investigates how architecture evolves by absorbing and accommodating fire while the penultimate chapter examines the critical moment of architectural evolution the destruction of buildings by fire with a focus on the tragic disaster at London's Grenfell Tower in 2017 Zografos concludes with thoughts on Freud's drive theory He argues the practice of architectural conservation is an expression of the life drive and a simultaneous repression of the death drive which suggests controlled destruction should be an integral part of the conservation agenda Architecture and Fire is founded in new interdisciplinary research navigating across the boundaries of architecture conservation archival theory classical mythology evolutionary theory thermodynamics philosophy and psychoanalysis It will be of interest to readers working in and around these disciplines

Draft Heritage Protection Bill Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Culture, Media and Sport Committee, 2008 In April 2008 the Department for Culture Media and Sport DCMS published a Draft Heritage Bill and the Government has indicated that the Bill will be in next year's legislative programme The Bill is designed to unify heritage protection regimes allow greater public involvement in decisions and place heritage at the heart of the planning system The Committee has undertaken pre legislative scrutiny of the bill but this was undermined by the incomplete nature of the legislation The Committee also felt that the Government must prioritise the revision of Planning policy guidelines PPGs 15 16 to ensure that the new guidance on planning policy can be implemented at the same time as the Bill Further serious issues of concern included the accuracy of current cost estimates impact assessment and sufficient staffing with the necessary skills in particular conservation officers The Committee was also not convinced that Heritage Partnership Agreements HPAs a new system of management agreements for owners of large estates were a robust business option Nor could any evidence be found that either DCMS or English Heritage had considered any amendments to the legislation which would improve the operation or effectiveness of the enforcement powers for local authorities
