Cities And Other Disasters:

Cities and Other Disasters James Randall, 1973 Cities, Disaster Risk and Adaptation Christine Wamsler, 2014-01-23

Worldwide disasters and climate change pose a serious risk to sustainable urban development resulting in escalating human and economic costs. Consequently, city authorities and other urban actors face the challenge of integrating risk reduction and adaptation strategies into their work. However, related knowledge and expertise are still scarce and fragmented. Cities, Disaster Risk and Adaptation explores ways in which resilient cities can be built and sustainable urban transformations achieved. The book provides a comprehensive understanding of urban risk reduction and adaptation planning, exploring key theoretical concepts and analysing the complex interrelations between cities, disasters, and climate change. Furthermore, it provides an overview of current risk reduction and adaptation approaches taken by both city authorities and city dwellers from diverse contexts in low, middle, and high income nations. Finally, the book offers a planning framework for reducing and adapting to risk in urban areas by expanding on pre-existing positive actions and addressing current shortfalls in theory and practice. The importance of a distributed urban governance system in which institutions and citizens' adaptive capacities can support and complement each other is highlighted. This book takes a holistic approach, integrating perspectives and practice from risk reduction and climate change adaptation based on a specific urban viewpoint. The text is richly supplemented with boxed case studies written by renowned academics and practitioners in the field and test yourself scenarios that integrate theory into practice. Each chapter contains learning objectives, end-of-chapter questions, suggested further reading, and web resources, as well as a wealth of tables and figures. This book is essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of geography, urban studies, and planning, architecture, environmental studies, international development, sociology, and sustainability studies.

Historic Cities in the Face of Disasters Fatemeh Farnaz Arefian, Judith Ryser, Andrew Hopkins, Jamie Mackee, 2021-09-13

This book examines reconstruction and resilience of historic cities and societies from multiple disciplinary and complementary perspectives, and by doing so, it helps researchers and practitioners alike, among them reconstruction managers, urban governance, and professionals. The book builds on carefully selected and updated papers accepted for the 2019 Silk Cities international conference on reconstruction, recovery, and resilience of historic cities and societies, the third Silk Cities conference held in L'Aquila, Italy, 10-12 July 2019, working with the University of L'Aquila and UCL. This multi-scale and multidisciplinary book offers cross-sectoral and complimentary voices from multiple stakeholders, including academia, urban governance, NGOs, and local populations. It examines post-disaster reconstruction strategies and case studies from Europe, Asia, and Latin America that provide a valuable collection for anyone who would like to get a global overview on the subject matter. It thereby enables a deeper understanding of challenges, opportunities, and approaches in dealing with historic cities facing disasters at various geographical scales. Additionally, it brings together historical approaches to the reconstruction of historical cities and those of more recent times. Thus, it can be used as a
