Cities Economic Competition And Urban Policy:

Urban Competitiveness Peter Karl Kresl, Daniele Ietri, 2015 During the past 25 years the burden of managing economic policy for competitiveness has devolved to cities and to urban regions National governments have increasingly been focused on staving off fiscal collapse Mayors and local administrations have become very creative and active in looking after the state of their local economy and have developed extensive agencies for inter city cooperation and action This book explores this evolving role of cities and urban regions Intelligent and rational policy must be based on an accurate understanding of the situation at hand and of the economic theory that can be utilized in the assessment of the most effective means that can be deployed This book examines the theoretical contributions of economists and geographers and through the analyses of the performance of various cities will give the reader an understanding of the logic behind rational policy formation Evaluation of a city s relative competitiveness is a controversial matter and this book provides a full treatment of the various approaches Finally it examines the experiences with competitiveness of several cities in North America and in Europe Urban Competitiveness Theory and Practice confirms that many cities in trying times do have a mechanism for enhancing their competitiveness and can work to create the sort of economic life the city s residents want Cities, Economic Competition and Urban Policy Nick Oatley, 1998 This book is a comprehensive and authoritative account for the major realignment that has taken place in English regeneration policy and practice since 1991 It includes chapters on transition in urban policy and the emergence of competitive bidding for resources urban entrepreneurialism competition and contracting in local government competition and housing policy and the role of leadership in regeneration partnerships Adapt du r sum de l diteur Cities as Engines of Sustainable Competitiveness Leo van den Berg, Jan van der Meer, 2016-05-23 Reflecting on two decades of competitiveness oriented urban policies in Europe this book investigates the current challenges cities face to sustain their economic position and how this can be balanced with social progress and environmental improvements Complementing previous surveys on local and urban development and competitiveness based strategies this volume provides longer term views on the evolution of such policies at the city level from the personal perspective of city officials in eight European cities More concretely it looks at how the urban dimension in EU policies have evolved over time the kinds of urban policy supported by the EU over the last two decades and how cities have been involved with this process The book investigates the portfolios of competitiveness oriented policies which have been developed by European cities and how they see the link between urban spatial development policies and sustainable competitiveness Finally the book fleshes out a number of challenges and initiatives taken by the eight European cities and their governments in the face of current challenges in order to pave the way towards more competitive and sustainable urban economies Urban Competitiveness and Innovation Pengfei Ni, Zheng Qiongjie, 2014 Against the backdrop of today s climate of economic globalization and the rapid development of information this timely book explores the complex concept of competitiveness between cities The expert contributors illustrate that innovation is a prerequisite for increasing urban competitiveness and highlight the various ways that urban innovation based competitiveness can be approached Themes explored include industrial clusters competitiveness between major cities local policy and competition enhancement governance to combat global climate change innovation in urban policy and collaboration between cities cluster theory and cluster based economic development policy the strategic shift towards domestic markets and service enhancement Scholars and policymakers in the fields of economics public sector economics innovation technology and urban competitiveness will find this book to be an enlightening read

Urban Regeneration in the UK Andrew Tallon,2013-06-07 Striking transformations are taking place in the urban landscape The regeneration of urban areas in the UK and around the world has become an increasingly important issue amongst governments and populations since the global economic downturn This textbook provides an accessible and critical synthesis of urban regeneration in the UK analyzing key policies approaches issues and debates It places the historical and contemporary regeneration agenda in context The second edition has been extensively revised and updated to incorporate advances in literature policy and case study examples as well as giving greater discussion to the New Labour period of urban policy and the urban agenda and regeneration policies of the Conservative Liberal Democrat Coalition government elected in 2010 The book is divided into five sections with Section I establishing the conceptual and political framework for urban regeneration in the UK Section II traces policies that have been adopted by central government to influence the social economic and physical development of cities including early town and country and housing initiatives community focused urban policies of the late 1960s entrepreneurial property led regeneration of the 1980s competition for urban funds in the 1990s urban renaissance and neighborhood renewal policies of the late 1990s and early 2000s and new approaches since 2010 which have sought to stimulate enterprise and embrace localism in an age of austerity resulting from the global economic downturn Section III illustrates the key thematic policies and strategies that have been pursued by cities themselves focusing particularly on improving economic competitiveness tackling social disadvantage and promoting sustainable urban regeneration Section IV summarizes key issues and debates facing urban regeneration in the early 2010s and speculates upon future directions in an era of economic and political uncertainty Urban Regeneration in the UK combines the approaches taken by central government and cities themselves to regenerate urban areas providing a comprehensive and up to date synthesis of the field Each chapter also contains case studies study questions suggested further reading and websites making this an essential resource for undergraduate students interested in Urban Studies Geography Planning and the Built Environment

Place-making and Policies for Competitive Cities Sako Musterd,Zoltán Kovács,2013-03-06 Urban policy makers are increasingly striving to strengthen the economic competitiveness of their cities Currently they do that mainly in the field of the creative knowledge economy arts media entertainment creative business services architecture publishing design and ICT R cities with different economies and industries port based cities and land locked cities And all 13 have different cultural political and welfare state traditions Through this wide set of contexts Place making and Policies for Competitive Cities contributes to the debate about the development of creative knowledge cities their economic growth and competitiveness and advocates the development of context sensitive tailored approaches Chapter authors from the 13 European cities rigorously evaluate reformulate and test assumptions behind old and new policies This solidly grounded and policy focused study on the urban policy of place making highlights practices for different contexts in managing knowledge intensive cities and by drawing on the varied experiences from across Europe it establishes the state of the art for both academic and policy debates in a fast moving field Creative Economies, Creative Cities Lily Kong, Justin O'Connor, 2009-05-19 Justin O Connor and Lily Kong The cultural and creative industries have become increasingly prominent in many policy agendas in recent years Not only have governments identified the growing consumer potential for cultural creative industry products in the home market they have also seen the creative industry agenda as central to the growth of external markets This agenda stresses creativity innovation small business growth and access to global markets all central to a wider agenda of moving from cheap manufacture towards high value added products and services The increasing importance of cultural and creative industries in national and city policy agendas is evident in Hong Kong Singapore Taiwan South Korea Beijing Shanghai and Guangzhou Australia and New Zealand and in more nascent ways in cities such as Chongqing and Wuhan Much of the thinking in these cities countries has derived from the European and North American policy landscape Policy debate in Europe and North America has been marked by ambiguities and tensions around the connections between cultural and economic policy which the creative industry agenda posits These become more marked because the key drivers of the creative economy are the larger metropolitan areas so that cultural and economic policy also then intersect with urban planning policy and governance Town and Country Planning in the UK Simin Davoudi, David Webb, Geoff Vigar, John Pendlebury, Tim Townshend, Trevor Hart, Vincent Nadin, 2014-12-05 Town and country planning has never been more important to the UK nor more prominent in national debate Planning generates great controversy whether it is spending 80m and four years inquiry into Heathrow's Terminal 5 or the 200 proposed wind turbines in the Shetland Isles On a smaller scale telecoms masts take aways house extensions and even fences are often the cause of local conflict Town and Country Planning in the UK has been extensively revised by a new author group This 15th Edition incorporates the major changes to planning introduced by the coalition government elected in 2010 particularly through the National Planning Policy Framework and associated practice guidance and the Localism Act It provides a critical discussion of the systems of planning the procedures for managing development and land use change and the mechanisms for implementing policy and proposals It reviews current policy for sustainable development and the associated economic social and environmental themes relevant to planning in both urban and rural contexts Contemporary arrangements are explained with reference to their historical development the influence of the European Union the roles of central and local government and developing social and economic demands for land use change Detailed consideration is given to the nature of planning and its historical evolution the role of the EU central regional and local government mechanisms for developing policy and managing these changes policies for guiding and delivering housing and economic development sustainable development principles for planning including pollution control the importance of design in planning conserving the heritage community engagement in planning The many recent changes to the system are explained in detail the new national planning policy framework the impact of the loss of the regional tier in planning and of the insertion of neighbourhood level planning the transition from development control to development management the continued and growing importance of environmental matters in planning community engagement partnership working changes to planning gain and the introduction of the Community Infrastructure Levy and new initiatives across a number of other themes Notes on further reading are provided and at the end of the book there is an extensive bibliography maintaining its reputation as the bible of British planning Urban competitiveness Begg, Iain, 2002-02-27 Following publication of the government's White Paper on cities 2000 the question of what makes some cities more successful than others has become an increasingly important policy issue This topical book tackles this question from differing perspectives Although previous work has explored particular facets of competitiveness this volume is the first to do so in a systematic way that combines theory evidence and policy implications Bringing together leading experts on urban economic performance it provides a new look at the issue of urban competitiveness and offers new insights into the factors that shape competitiveness Partnership, Collaborative Planning and Urban Regeneration John McCarthy, 2007 Approaches to urban regeneration have changed dramatically throughout Europe and the USA over recent decades This engaging book provides critical consideration of such theories in terms of their application to practice and suggests ways in which the practice of urban regeneration can be improved in terms of inclusion equity and sustainability Learning cities in a knowledge based society, 2010

Public Sector, 2004 Making Competitive Cities Sako Musterd, Alan Murie, 2010-06-28 The book investigates the impact on the competitiveness of cities developing creative industries arts media entertainment creative business services architects publishers designers and knowledge intensive industries ICT R include capital and non capital cities of different sizes represent cities with different economic structures and different cultural political and welfare state traditions Through this wide set of examples Making Competitive Cities informs the debate about creative and knowledge intensive industries economic development and competitiveness policies It focuses on which metropolitan regions have a better chance to develop as creative knowledge regions and which do not as well as investigating why this is so and what can policy do to influence change Chapter authors from thirteen European institutions rigorously evaluate reformulate and empirically test assumptions about cities and their potential for attracting creative and knowledge intensive industries As well as a systematic empirical comparison of developments related to these industries the book examines the pathways that cities have followed and surveys both the negative and positive impacts of different prevailing conditions Special Features Analyses link between knowledge intensive sectors and urban competitiveness Offers evidence from 13 European urban regions drawn from a major research project Establishes a new benchmark for academic and policy debates in a fast moving field

Planning Cities for the Future Peter Karl Kresl,2007 Examines the relationship between urban competitiveness and economic strategic planning for ten internationally networked cities within the EU This book links the study of urban economic competitiveness with urban planning and also attempts to ascertain the crucial factors for success in this area of public policy Peter Kresl brings unique and invaluable empirical evidence from the early 1990s through to 2005 to examine the relationship between urban competitiveness and economic strategic planning for ten internationally networked cities within the EU Planning Cities for the Future links the study of urban economic competitiveness with urban planning and is able to ascertain the crucial factors for success in this area of public policy These factors include effective governance leadership and monitoring of performance The author also reveals how economic turbulence macro economic stagnation the emergence of competitors such as China and Central Europe and the introduction of the Euro for example all have distinct impacts on the economic development of cities He also suggests that today s economic strengths may create tomorrow s social pathologies a fact which city planners must always keep in mind Peter Kresl s book offers examples of cities that got it right and others that did not

Towards a Competitive, Sustainable Modern City Peter K. Kresl,2020-11-28 This original book examines the experiences cities and urban areas have had with two principal concerns that confront them today sustainability and competitiveness Focusing on major cities in East Asia North America and Western Europe Towards a Competitive Sustainable Modern City illuminates the ways in which cities differ not only in their course and stages of development but in the nature of their economies and their administrative structures Featuring a wide ranging set of contributions from top researchers this book discusses and analyzes the issues that different cities face such as social cohesion tolerance and cultural diversity and how this will determine their developmental trajectories through the coming decade These issues are explored in relation to contemporary topics including the growing economy of robotics the rising importance and use of artificial intelligence and the information and communications economy Towards a Competitive Sustainable Modern City will be an invaluable read for scholars and professors in urban economics and urban studies more broadly particularly those who are focusing on the importance of sustainability in both areas Its stimulating yet accessible approach to the topic and key case studies will also greatly benefit urban planners and economic policy makers looking to improve contemporary cities
