Cities in a Global Society Richard Victor Knight, Gary Gappert, 1989-08 Cities in a Global Society is an impressive collection of essays focused on an important global redefinition. Go Global is a rapidly emerging theme of the 1990s and this book is the definitive overview of cities that are doing so. Michael Marien Editor Future Survey This is one of the most significant public policy books to appear. In essay after essay this important volume makes clear a simple idea. That the culture environment and economy of cities are increasingly influenced by forces well beyond the end of Main Street. Bulletin of Municipal Foreign Policy As the year 2000 approaches urbanized areas are entering a new era one in which they will be shaped primarily by their responses to powerful global forces. The editors and contributors to this fascinating and timely volume believe that cities must begin to assess their roles in a global society and establish their strategic position and comparative advantage in the global marketplace. A wide range of essays by noted international scholars shows how national urban policies tend to be reactive driven by problems rather than by opportunities consequently reinforcing the passive nature of cities and their dependency on national initiatives. The diversity of their perspectives analyses observations and insights helps to identify and define critical issues that cities are beginning to address as they become more internationally oriented. After first examining the role of cities in society the contributors present several perspectives on a city futures management model and review strategies for developing global cities. This stimulating volume offers a wide range of innovative responses to these new challenges and will be useful to professionals and students in urban studies economics development studies anthropology international relations future studies political science political theory and sociology.

Cities in a World Economy Saskia Sassen, 2000-02-15 On global economy World City Network Peter Taylor, Ben Derudder, 2015-08-17 With the advent of multinational corporations the traditional urban service function has gone global. In order to provide services to globalizing corporate clients the offices of major financial and business service firms across the world have generated networks of work. It is the myriad of flows between office towers in different metropolitan centres that has produced a world city network. Taylor and Derudder's unique and illuminating book provides both an update and a substantial revision of the first edition that was published in 2004. It provides a comprehensive and systematic description and analysis of the world city network as the skeleton upon which contemporary globalization has been built. Through an analysis of the intra company flows of 175 leading global service firms across 526 cities in 2012 this book assesses cities in terms of their overall network connectivity the regional configurations they form and their changing position in the period 2000-12. Results are used to reflect on cities and city state relations in the context of the global ecological and economic crisis. Written by two of the foremost authorities on the subject this book provides a much needed mapping of the connecting relationships between world cities and will be a valuable resource for students of urban studies geography sociology and planning.
