Thomas Eakins and the Cultures of Modernity Alan C. Braddock, 2009-03-31 Thomas Eakins and the Cultures of Modernity is the first book to situate Philadelphia s greatest realist painter in relation to the historical discourse of cultural difference In this study Alan C Braddock reveals that modern anthropological perceptions of culture which many art historians attribute to Eakins did not become current until after the artist s death in 1916 Braddock finds in the work of Thomas Eakins a lifelong engagement with aesthetic and social currents that extended well beyond his native city of Philadelphia indicating the persistence of a worldly sensibility long after he had concluded his formative studies in Europe during the 1860s Braddock shows how Eakins developed a localized cosmopolitanism all his own based in Philadelphia but tapped into a global field of visual production

A Genealogy of Modernism Michael Harry Levenson, 1986-06-27 A Genealogy of Modernism is a study of literary transition in the first two decades of the twentieth century a period of extraordinary ferment and great accomplishment during which the avant garde gradually consolidated a secure place within English culture Michael Levenson analyses that complex process by following the successive phases of a literary movement Impressionist Imagist Vorticist Classicist as it attempted to formulate the principles on which a new aesthetic might be founded The emphasis here falls on the ideology of modernism but throughout the book the ideological question is tied on the one hand to specific literary works and on the other to general movements in philosophy and the fine arts The major figures under discussion Joseph Conrad Ford Madox Ford Ezra Pound Wyndham Lewis and T S Eliot are placed in relation to thinkers who have been largely neglected in the history of modernism Max Stirner Wilhelm Worringer Pierre Lasserre Allen Upward and Hilaire Belloc Levenson thus situates the emergence of a modernist aesthetic within the context of literary theory literary practice and cultural history

Literary Impressionism and Modernist Aesthetics Jesse Matz, 2001-08-02 Jesse Matz examines the writing of such modernists as Henry James Joseph Conrad and Virginia Woolf who used the word impression to describe what they wanted their fiction to present Matz redefines literary Impressionism focusing on the way that impressions destroy standard perceptual distinctions between thinking and sensing believing and suspecting He argues that these writers favoured not immediate subjective sense but rather a mode that would mediate perceptual distinctions Just as impressions fall somewhere between thought and sense Impressionist fiction occupies the middle ground between opposite ways of engaging with the world Matz also argues that the resulting confusion becomes a basic plot feature of modernist fiction This wide ranging 2001 study addresses the problems of perception and representation that occupied writers in the early decades of the twentieth century Modernism, Media, and Propaganda Mark Wollaeger,2008-09-15 Though often defined as having opposite aims means and effects modernism and modern propaganda developed at the same time and influenced each other in surprising ways The professional propagandist emerged as one kind of information specialist the modernist writer as another Britain was particularly important to this double history By secretly hiring well known writers and intellectuals to write for the government and by exploiting their control of new global information systems the British in World War I invented a new template for the manipulation of information that remains with us to this day Making a persuasive case for the importance of understanding modernism in the context of the history of modern propaganda Modernism Media and Propaganda also helps explain the origins of today s highly propagandized world Modernism Media and Propaganda integrates new archival research with fresh interpretations of British fiction and film to provide a comprehensive cultural history of the relationship between modernism and propaganda in Britain during the first half of the twentieth century From works by Joseph Conrad to propaganda films by Alfred Hitchcock and Orson Welles Mark Wollaeger traces the transition from literary to cinematic propaganda while offering compelling close readings of major fiction by Virginia Woolf Ford Madox Ford and James Joyce
