Civil Disorder Is The Disease Of Ibadan:

"Civil Disorder is the Disease of Ibadan" Ruth Watson,2003      Science and an African Logic Helen Verran,2001-12-15 Does two and two equal four Ask someone and they should answer yes An equation such as this seems the very definition of certainty but is it In this book Helen Verran addresses precisely that question      The African City Bill Freund,2007-03-05 Publisher description      Good Governance in Nigeria Portia Roelofs,2023-04-20 Drawing on original fieldwork in Nigeria Portia Roelofs argues for an innovative re conceptualisation of good governance Contributing to debates around technocracy populism and the survival of democracy amidst conditions of inequality and mistrust Roelofs offers a new account of what it means for leaders to be accountable and transparent Centred on the rise of the Lagos Model in the Yoruba south west this book places the voices of roadside traders and small time market leaders alongside those of local government officials political godfathers and technocrats In doing so it theorises socially embedded good governance Roelofs demonstrates the value of fieldwork for political theory and the associated possibilities for decolonising the study of politics Challenging the long held assumptions of the World Bank and other international institutions that African political systems are pathologically dysfunctional Roelofs demonstrates that politics in Nigeria has much to teach us about good governance

Christianity and Social Change in Africa Toyin Falola,2005 Christianity and Social Change in Africa is the most comprehensive look at the African encounter with Christianity in recent years The book s themes are drawn from the pioneering work of J D Y Peel building on his creative explanation of the African experience of Christianity The volume covers a broad range of themes including religious expansion the rise of Pentecostalism and the use of new media and technologies to convert people and reform believers The various manifestations of religious impact run through all the chapters covering aspects of culture politics the economy and the landscape The volume also explores the success of Africans in exporting Christianity to other parts of the globe a phenomenon that has redefined both the message and meaning of this religion The contributors are a distinguished roster of scholars who draw on years of experience and research to present remarkable ideas and original interpretations of the forces Christianity exerts in Africa The essays reflect the importance of comparative historical inquiry inter disciplinary perspectives Peel s contributions to the transformation of history and sociology and the paths that a new generation of scholars must chart to comprehend the power of African Christianity For all interested in the processes and power relations of cultural self representation and self determination in the African context this book is essential The International Journal of African Historical Studies The chapters are well written persuasive and well structured The book is a useful tool for the study of social transformation and cultural persistence in African diaspora and cultural studies Journal of African History This is an important book for scholars of Nigeria and the Yoruba world but also for those interested in the ongoing question of religious change in Africa and the diaspora Indeed some of the individual essays have the potential to become classics This book is a fitting salute to the legacy of John Peel African Studies Review At a time when

Christianity in Africa is experiencing a great leap forward Christianity and Social Change in Africa facilitates an exploration of some of the themes more critical to this development The book signals interesting directions for future research and should be welcomed by anyone interested in the still unfolding landscape that is Christianity in Africa Pneuma Economy and Society in Nigeria ,2011 Africa South of the Sahara 2003 Europa Publications,2002-10-31 A one volume library of essential and comprehensive data on all the countries of sub Saharan Africa including essays on regional issues statistical surveys and directories of invaluable contact names and addresses Perspectives on Vigilantism in Nigeria David Pratten,2008 This collection focuses on the rise of vigilantism and the privatization of armed security in Nigeria from a number of fresh perspectives that move beyond the collapsed state thesis to grasp the more productive and dynamic dimensions of sociality and security both today and during the colonial period Vigilantism has become an endemic feature of the Nigerian social and political landscape especially so since the return to democratic rule in 1999 Vigilantes have assumed a status synonymous with the fractured and violence ridden image of Africa s most populous nation Beyond fighting crime vigilante groups such as the O odua People s Congress the Bakassi Boys and the shari a implementation committees represent divergent aspirations for Nigeria s future and spearhead contemporary political contests over the country s most intractable issues the politics of democracy ethnicity and religion Set against global trends in the privatization of policing and emergent forms of armed insurgency across the African continent this collection draws on anthropological and historical perspectives to situate vigilantism within historical trajectories and within localized idioms of power knowledge and accountability African Studies Review ,2008 Biennial Conference ,1998 Cold War and Decolonization in Guinea, 1946-1958 Elizabeth Schmidt,2007 Winner of the African Politics Conference Group s Best Book Award In September 1958 Guinea claimed its independence rejecting a constitution that would have relegated it to junior partnership in the French Community In all the French empire Guinea was the only territory to vote No Orchestrating the No vote was the Guinean branch of the Rassemblement D mocratique Africain RDA an alliance of political parties with affiliates in French West and Equatorial Africa and the United Nations trusts of Togo and Cameroon Although Guinea s stance vis vis the 1958 constitution has been recognized as unique until now the historical roots of this phenomenon have not been adequately explained Clearly written and free of jargon Cold War and Decolonization in Guinea argues that Guinea s vote for independence was the culmination of a decade long struggle between local militants and political leaders for control of the political agenda Since 1950 when RDA representatives in the French parliament severed their ties to the French Communist Party conservative elements had dominated the RDA In Guinea local cadres had opposed the break Victimized by the administration and sidelined by their own leaders they quietly rebuilt the party from the base Leftist militants their voices muted throughout most of the decade gained preeminence in 1958 when trade unionists students the party s women s and youth wings and other grassroots actors pushed the Guinean RDA to endorse a No vote Thus Guinea s rejection of the proposed constitution in favor of immediate independence was not an isolated aberration. Rather, it was the outcome of years of political mobilization by activists who, despite Cold War repression, ultimately pushed the Guinean RDA to the left. The significance of this highly original book, based on previously unexamined archival records and oral interviews with grassroots activists, extends far beyond its primary subject. In illuminating the Guinean case, Elizabeth Schmidt helps us understand the dynamics of decolonization and its legacy for postindependence nation building in many parts of the developing world. Examining Guinean history from the bottom up, Schmidt considers local politics within the larger context of the Cold War, making her book suitable for courses in African history and politics, diplomatic history, and Cold War history.

Lineages of State Fragility Joshua Forrest, 2003. Lineages of State Fragility argues that, despite European influences, the contemporary fragility of African states can be fully appreciated only by examining the indigenous social context in which these states evolved. Focusing on Guinea-Bissau, Forrest exposes the emergence of a strong rural civil society originating in precolonial times.

Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London University of London. School of Oriental and African Studies, 2005.

Recasting the Past Derek R. Peterson, Giacomo Macola, 2009-09-15. The study of intellectual history in Africa is in its infancy. We know very little about what Africa's thinkers made of their times. Recasting the Past brings one field of intellectual endeavor into view. The book takes its place alongside a small but growing literature that highlights how, in autobiographies, historical writing, fiction, and other literary genres, African writers intervened creatively in their political world. The past has already been worked over by the African interpreters; that the present volume brings into view African brokers, pastors, journalists, kingmakers, religious dissidents, politicians, entrepreneurs, all have been doing research, conducting interviews, reading archives, and presenting their results to critical audiences. Their scholarly work makes it impossible to think of African history as an inert entity awaiting the attention of professional historians. Professionals take their place in a broader field of interpretation where Africans are already reifying, editing, and representing the past. The essays collected in Recasting the Past study the warp and weft of Africa's homespun historical work. Contributors trace the strands of discourse from which historical entrepreneurs drew, highlighting the sources of inspiration and reference that enlivened their work. By illuminating the conventions of the past, Africa's history writers set their contemporary constituents on a path toward a particular future. History writing was a means by which entrepreneurs conjured up constituencies, claimed legitimate authority, and mobilized people around a cause. By illuminating the spheres of debate in which Africa's own scholars participated, Recasting the Past repositions the practice of modern history.

The City as Muse Femi Osofisan, 2007.

The Stool Owns the City Naaborko Sackeyfio-Lenoch, 2008. New Perspectives on Islam in Senegal Mamadou Diouf, Mara A. Leichtman, 2009-02-13. Drawing together contributions from history, anthropology, sociology, political science, and religious studies, this collection of original essays interrogates the new structures and conditions of Islam in Senegal, locally and globally. This volume represents a break from the established literature on Senegalese Islam and brings fresh perspectives alternative methodologies and provocative theories on transnational Islam religious conversion revisionist histories and patterns of conspicuous consumption in relation to gender and Islam Chapters highlight discourses and practices in the context of broadly defined sites conversion education politics and economics sexuality popular culture and their impact on the multiple and changing articulations of Muslim identities Slavery and Reform in West Africa Trevor R. Getz,2004 Local elites resisted diverted and appropriated metropolitan attempts to end or restrict access to and control of slaves At the same time slaves were able to liberate themselves and take part in mass emancipations The situation was transformed by the introduction of new economic opportunities and politicisation and social change among slaves themselves North America Ohio U Press Africa South of the Sahara 2004 Europa Publications,2003 A definitive one volume guide to all sub Saharan African countries providing invaluable economic and directory data Out of the Shadows Kayode Fayemi,2005
