Bozarth, M.A. (1983). Opiate reward mechanisms mapped by intracranial self-administration. In J.E. Smith and J.D. Lane (eds.), Neurobiology of Opiate Reward Processes (pp. 331-339). Amsterdam: Elsevier/North Holland Biomedical Press. [This is an example of an article published in a book.]

This book chapter reviews data suggesting that the ventral tegmental area is critically involved in opiate reward. In addition it presents the first of several theoretical reviews by the author suggesting that opiate and psychomotor stimulant reinforcement involves activation of the same dopaminergic substrate. (By the mid-1980s the notion that different addictive drugs might share a common reward substrate would become paradigmatic for the study of drug reinforcement and addiction.) Control procedures and other methodological issues for conducting intracranial self-administration studies are also discussed.

Bozarth, M.A. (1987). (ed.) Methods of Assessing the Reinforcing Properties of Abused Drugs. New York: Springer-Verlag. [This is an example of a book citation.]

This book provides the definitive compendium of the experimental methods used to study drug reinforcement. Thirty chapters written by leading experts in each technique provide synopses of the experimental procedures. Both preclinical and clinical methods are presented, grouped by general approach (e.g., preclinical reinforcement studies, preclinical conditioning methods, clinical subjective-effects measures, clinical self-administration procedures). Most chapters present an overview and review of an experimental method, while some chapters provide original experimental data illustrating specific applications of a technique.

Interestingly, none of the researchers presented physical dependence tests as a method of assessing potential drug reinforcement; this is probably because of the editor's assertion that physical dependence is not a primary motivation for drug-taking behavior and because of the obvious consensus shared by his contributing authors. The book sold-out shortly after its publication and has not been reprinted. It is, however, available in its entirety on the Internet at www.AddictionScience.net and can be downloaded chapter-by-chapter without charge.

Clive, 1983 Clément Marot and Religion Dick Wursten, 2010-05-20 Famous mainly for his chansons and epigrams the French poet Clément Marot 1496-1544 also supplied the texts for the Huguenot Psalter Did he only paraphrase the Psalms to do Marguerite de Navarre the leading lady of reform oriented France a favour or was there more to it This book offers a new approach to this question which has got stuck in a yes-no discussion A breakthrough is forced by the author's focussing on the Psalm paraphrases themselves which until now have never actually been included in Marot research Analysed from a multidisciplinary perspective the successive versions of these paraphrases reveal that Marot was interested in reaching a consistent literary and historically reliable versification of the Psalms thus implicitly questioning the traditional christological exegesis The author's perusal of Jewish exegetical insights Kimhi Ibn Ezra in Martin Bucer's Commentary shows where Marot acquired a satisfactory hermeneutical framework
