The Ways of the Word Garrett Stewart, 2022-01-15 In The Ways of the Word Garrett Stewart steps aside from theory to focus on the sheer pleasure of attentive reading and the excitement of recognizing the play of syllables and words upon which the best literary writing is founded Emerging out of teaching creative writing and a broader effort to convene writers and critics Stewart s episodes in verbal attention track the means to meaning through the byways of literary wording Through close engagement with literary passages and poetic instances whose imaginative demands are their own reward Stewart gathers exhibits from dozens of authors from Dickinson Dickens and DeLillo to Whitman Woolf and Colson Whitehead In the process idiom tense etymology and other elements of expressive language and its phonetic wordplay are estranged and heard anew The Ways of the Word fluidly and intuitively reveals a verbal alchemy that is as riveting as it is elusive and mysterious

Guide to Magellan Image Interpretation ,1993 The Universal Deep Structure of Modern Poetry John A.F. Hopkins, 2020-04-02 With something of a poetry renaissance currently under way worldwide there is now more than ever a need for a solidly based methodology for interpreting poems something more empirical than traditional lit crit approaches and something more linguistically informed than the version of postmodernism rampant in certain Anglophone universities

The latter approach which tends to allow the individual reader to do what he/she likes with a poetic text is inadequate to interpret modernist poetry whose English language precursors may be found in the late Romantics; its pioneers were already writing in France as early as 1840. What is so different about the modernists? Most importantly, their works are monumental in that they are strongly resistant to deconstruction. Contributing to this resistance is the fact that they are built around two deep level propositions, each of which generates a set of indirectly signifying images sharing the same internal structure but having a different vocabulary. Thus they do not signify according to linear narrative but according to these propositions and the relation between them, which may be reconstructed by a careful comparison of images on the textual surface. Every text as subject sign refers to an intertextual object sign, which is usually another poem but may also be a film or other form of art. Mediating between these two signs is their reader-constructed interpretant, which completes the semiotic triad. As this book shows, the novelty of this sign is thrown into relief by the contrast it makes with a lexical counterpart from the reader's experience, which differs from the interpretant in structure. The book's inclusion of French and Japanese as well as English poems shows that deep level signifying mechanisms may well be universal, with considerable research and pedagogical implications.
