Cite Industrielle:

Tony Garnier: the Cité Industrielle Dora Wiebenson, 1969 One of the more important but enigmatic figures of the modern planning movement is Tony Garnier 1869-1948 Little is known about his life or about the influences on him which led to his creation of the project on which his fame now rests the Cité Industrielle Only in a recent work by Christophe Pawlowski Tony Garnier et les débuts de l'urbanisme fonctionnelle en France Paris 1967 do the known pertinent facts about Garnier seem to be discussed in any detail Because this work as indeed most literature on Garnier stresses the contribution of the Cité to later twentieth century city planning it is the purpose of our book to discuss Garnier's work as a product of its particular environment and to investigate its place as a bridge both between nineteenth and twentieth century planning theory and between academic and nonacademic architectural theories and techniques Sections of the following discussion are based on my article Utopian Aspects of Tony Garnier's Cité Industrielle which appeared in the March 1960 issue of the Journal of the Society of Architectural Historians I am indebted to M. Louis Weckerlin architecte en chef of Lyons who many years ago generously shared with me his wealth of knowledge about Garnier's work and attitudes I would also like to thank George R. Collins of Columbia University who from time to time has encouraged me in my interest in Tony Garnier

An Industrial City Tony Garnier, 1989

Tony Garnier, 1970 Space, Time and Architecture Sigfried Giedion, 1967 A classic first published in 1941 this is an unparalleled work on the shaping of our architectural environment In his discussions of leading architects and styles Giedion examines the evolving of new traditions the strengthening of its plastic tendencies and conditions for further evolution the urban renewal boom of the fifties and the development of regionalism by creatively oriented architects

The Enclosed Garden Rob Aben, Saskia de Wit, 1999 The Company Town John Garner, 1992-10-01 Built by industrialists whose early businesses contributed to the escalation of the Industrial Revolution company towns flourished in countries that embraced capitalism and open market trading In many instances the company town came to symbolize the wrecking of the environment especially in places associated with extractive industries such as mining and lumber milling Some resident industrialists however took a genuine interest in the welfare of their work forces and in a number of instances hired architects to provide a model environment Overtaken by time these towns were either abandoned or caught up in suburban growth The most thorough going and only international assessment of the company town this collection of essays by specialists and authorities of each region offers a balanced account of architectural and social history and provides a better understanding of the architectural and urban experiences of the early industrial age

Tony Garnier Tony Garnier, 1990 La Cité, 1929 Tony Garnier's Cité Industrielle Dora Wiebenson, 1958 The Scenes of the Street and Other Essays Anthony Vidler, 2011-03-15 Anthony Vidler an internationally recognized scholar theorist and critic of modern and contemporary architecture is widely known for his essays on the most pressing issues and debates in the field This volume brings together a collection of such writings including the iconic long unavailable Scenes of the Street into one volume Scenes of the Street and Other Essays showcases Vidler's engaging and accessible expertise on both contemporary and historic subjects that are relevant to today's concerns. Scenes of the Street a multi-faceted analysis of city planning is one such example. Other essays in this volume include Unknown Lands by Guy Debord and the Cartographies of a Landscape to be Invented by Transparency and Utopia. Constructing the Void from Pascal to Foucault and The Modern Acropolis by Tony Garnier from La Cit Antique to the Cit Industrielle. Vidler writes in his introduction: "In the following essays I have interrogated the struggle for an urban architecture in the modern period, its critiques and aspirations, in the belief that understanding the historical dimensions of the debate will lead to a renewal of interest in an architecture calculated to redeem, if only partially, our planet of slums and its deteriorating environment, an interest that will not simply reject utopia out of hand or fall back into the complacencies of nostalgia." Written during a period in which the debates themselves were actively engaged by critics and supporters of modernism, they reflect contemporary issues as they search for their prehistory. As historical inquiries, they inevitably also engage the transformations in history writing itself since 1970: intellectual responses to the social and political conditions of postwar modernity. This fascinating series of essays on issues and figures is an invaluable resource for architects and art historians and enthusiasts of structure and substance alike.
