Cities Of Our Past Present:

The Past, Present, and Future of Canadian Cities Alexandra Flynn, Richard Albert, Nathalie Des Rosiers, 2024-10-15 In 1861 just a few years before Confederation 84 per cent of Canadians lived in rural areas today it's less than 20 per cent Our municipal governments are asked to do more for their citizens than ever before yet they must confront myriad challenges from the public health pandemic to the housing crisis without the tools they need They have no constitutional protection from jurisdictional overstepping by provincial governments and no assurance that they will be able to complete any effort they undertake The Past Present and Future of Canadian Cities explores the historical functions of municipalities their current ability to tackle major problems and what the future holds for shifting legal and political powers This volume examines how pre Confederation cities came to have their current constitutional and legislative forms how current local governments make decisions within existing legal parameters highlighting Indigenous municipal relationships and emergency management and finally looks to the world to investigate future innovation in municipal governance The Past Present and Future of Canadian Cities makes the case that constitutional concepts must be repurposed to support the transition from nation building to city building in a global context

Cities and Their Vital Systems Advisory Committee on Technology and Society, 1988-02-01 Cities and Their Vital Systems asks basic questions about the longevity utility and nature of urban infrastructures analyzes how they grow interact and change and asks how when and at what cost they should be replaced Among the topics discussed are problems arising from increasing air travel and airport congestion the adequacy of water supplies and waste treatment the impact of new technologies on construction urban real estate values and the field of telematics the combination of computers and telecommunications that makes money machines and national newspapers possible
