Civic Arousal:

Civic Arousal Ralph Nader,2004-10-12 When we were youngsters our father would ask us provocative questions One day he asked What is the most powerful event producing force in the world We guessed and guessed His answer Apathy What Yes he said apathy because huge numbers of apathetic citizens or victims allow bad guys to create all kinds of problems on the ground from dictatorial regimes to repressed economic conditions to health and safety hazards to corruption to wars and so forth Edmund Burke the British conservative philosopher around the time of our country s revolution put it another way All that is necessary for evil to prevail is for good men to do nothing Thomas Paine s Common Sense galvanized his fellow American colonists into seizing their independence from Britain Today as we again face times that try men s souls Ralph Nader s call to civic action is as crucial to our country s future as Paine s was in 1776 In Civic Arousal Nader responds to thoughtful letters written by two young citizens both frustrated with the political status quo but unsure about their power to affect real change His insights will inspire every citizen to participate in our democracy and movements for positive change in this country The Nineteenth Century and After,1920 Interpretations and Forecasts Victor Branford,1914 The Sociological Review ,1921 The Forum Loretta Sutton Metcalf,Walter Hines Page,Joseph Mayer Rice,Frederic Taber Cooper,Arthur Hooley,George Henry Payne,Henry Goddard Leach,D. G. Redmond,1914 Science and Sarcasm Victor Branford,1923 "Only the Super-Rich Can Save Us!" Ralph Nader,2011-01-04 In the cozy den of the large but modest house in Omaha where he has lived since he started on his first billion Warren Buffett watched the horrors of Hurricane Katrina unfold on television in early September 2005 On the fourth day he beheld in disbelief the paralysis of local state and federal authorities unable to commence basic operations of rescue and sustenance not just in New Orleans but in towns and villages all along the Gulf Coast He knew exactly what he had to do So begins the vivid fictional account by political activist and bestselling author Ralph Nader that answers the question What if What if a cadre of superrich individuals tried to become a driving force in America to organize and institutionalize the interests of the citizens of this troubled nation What if some of America s most powerful individuals decided it was time to fix our government and return the power to the people What if they focused their power on unionizing Wal Mart What if a national political party were formed with the sole purpose of advancing clean elections What if these seventeen superrich individuals decided to galvanize a movement for alternative forms of energy that will effectively clean up the environment What if together they took on corporate goliaths and Congress to provide the necessities of life and advance the solutions so long left on the shelf by an avaricious oligarchy What could happen This extraordinary story written by the author who knows the most about citizen action returns us to the literature of American social movements to Edward Bellamy to Upton Sinclair to John Steinbeck to Stephen Crane reminding us in the process that changing the body politic of America starts with imagination Forum ,1914 Living Religions, a Plea for the Larger Modernism Victor Branford,1924 Utopian Papers Dorothea Hollins,1908

Case Group Clyde B. Moore, 1924 Documents of the Civic Federation of New Haven, 1913 Objectives and Procedures in Civic Education Charles Clinton Peters, 1930 Tools, Totems, and Totalities Allen Batteau, Christine Z. Miller, 2025-02-11 This book provides a critical perspective on technology answering the questions of why technologies often disappoint It takes a sociotechnical and historical perspective on technology as developed by an engineer anthropologist and a design anthropologist to answer questions not only about why modern societies have great expectations of technology but also of why these technologies often fail to meet expectations Modern societies often search for technological solutions technofixes to what are institutional problems which include border crossings or urban mobility or improvements in productivity or improved communication It is disappointing when technofixes whether border walls or driverless cars or social media fail to live up to their promises of greater personal autonomy such as afforded by driverless cars or improved social harmony through social media Examining technology from the perspectives of instrumentality tools identity totems and world defining systems totalities develops a comprehensive perspective that is at once historically informed and cross culturally accurate Although instrumentality is obvious and is at the core of any understanding of technology identity is less so yet many modern tribes create their identity in terms of technological objects and systems whether transport systems cars and airplanes or social media or weapons guns Further modern technologies span the globe so that they exert imperative coordination over distant populations the use of cell phones around the world is testimony to this fact Such a critical perspective on technology can be useful in policy discussions of numerous issues affecting contemporary institutions
