of the first to come to mind but if the focus then shifts to India then Harappa and Mohenjo daro will likely come up These cities owe their existence to India s oldest civilization known as the Indus Valley Civilization or the Harappan Civilization which was contemporary with ancient Mesopotamia and ancient Egypt and had extensive contacts with the former making it one of the most important early civilizations in the world Spread out along the rivers of the Indus River Valley hundreds of settlements began forming around 3300 BCE eventually coalescing into a society that had all of the hallmarks of a true civilization including writing well developed cities a complex social structure and long distance trade Mohenjo daro was the largest city of the Indus Valley Civilization one of the most advanced civilizations to have ever existed and the best known and most ancient prehistoric urban site on the Indian subcontinent It was a metropolis of great cultural economic and political importance that dates from the beginning of the 3rd millennium BCE Although it primarily flourished between approximately 2500 and 1500 BCE the city had longer lasting influences on the urbanization of the Indian subcontinent for centuries after its abandonment It is believed to have been one of two capital cities of the Indus Civilization its twin being Harappa located further north in Punjab Pakistan The fact that the ancient Indus Valley Civilization is also often referred to as the Harappan Civilization demonstrates how important the discovery of Harappa is As archaeologists and historians began to uncover more of the ancient Harappa site in the 19th and early 20th centuries a more complete picture of the city emerged namely its importance Research has shown that Harappa was one of the three most important Indus Valley cities if not the most important with several mounds of settlements uncovered that indicate building activities took place there for over 1 000 years At its height Harappa was a booming city of up to 50 000 people who were divided into neighborhoods by walls and who went about their daily lives in well built orderly streets Harappa also had drainage systems markets public baths and other large structures that may have been used for public ceremonies Ancient Harappa was truly a thriving and vibrant city that was on par with contemporary cities in Mesopotamia such as Ur and Memphis in Egypt Among the many cities that formed in the region was a site known today as Kalibangan which was unknown to the modern world until archaeologists began uncovering its secrets in excavations during the 1960s They uncovered a city that was not as large or important as the better known sites of Mohenjo daro and Harappa but one that was still relatively large and the most important of all Indus cities along the now extinct Saraswati River Excavations at Kalibangan have revealed that the city had two phases of settlement which corresponded with the two major phases of Indus Valley Civilization and that it influenced the smaller settlements along the Saraswati River Archaeological work at Kalibangan has also shown that although it followed some of the patterns of larger Indus cities such as Mohenjo daro and Harappa it was also a unique city in many ways Kalibangan was located on a different river from the other major Indus Valley Civilization cities and its river suffered a fate that led to the end of the city The city of Kalibangan also presented modern archaeologists with a treasure trove of findings because it was one of the best preserved Harappan sites giving scholars a chance to see not only how the people of

Kalibangan lived but possibly how the city died The Indus Valley Civilization and Maurya Empire Charles River Editors, 2020-02-19 Includes pictures Includes a bibliography for further reading When one thinks of the world's first cities Sumer Memphis and Babylon are some of the first to come to mind but if the focus then shifts to India then Harappa and Mohenjo daro will likely come up These cities owe their existence to India's oldest civilization known as the Indus Valley Civilization or the Harappan Civilization which was contemporary with ancient Mesopotamia and ancient Egypt and had extensive contacts with the former making it one of the most important early civilizations in the world Spread out along the rivers of the Indus River Valley hundreds of settlements began forming around 3300 BCE eventually coalescing into a society that had all of the hallmarks of a true civilization including writing well developed cities a complex social structure and long distance trade Mohenjo daro was the largest city of the Indus Valley Civilization one of the most advanced civilizations to have ever existed and the best known and most ancient prehistoric urban site on the Indian subcontinent It was a metropolis of great cultural economic and political importance that dates from the beginning of the 3rd millennium BCE Although it primarily flourished between approximately 2500 and 1500 BCE the city had longer lasting influences on the urbanization of the Indian subcontinent for centuries after its abandonment It is believed to have been one of two capital cities of the Indus Civilization its twin being Harappa located further north in Punjab Pakistan The fact that the ancient Indus Valley Civilization is also often referred to as the Harappan Civilization demonstrates how important the discovery of Harappa is As archaeologists and historians began to uncover more of the ancient Harappa site in the 19th and early 20th centuries a more complete picture of the city emerged namely its importance Research has shown that Harappa was one of the three most important Indus Valley cities if not the most important with several mounds of settlements uncovered that indicate building activities took place there for over 1 000 years Ancient Harappa was truly a thriving and vibrant city that was on par with contemporary cities in Mesopotamia such as Ur and Memphis in Egypt During the last centuries of the first millennium BCE most of the Mediterranean basin and the Near East were either directly or indirectly under the influence of Hellenism The Greeks spread their ideas to Egypt Mesopotamia and Persia and attempted to unify all of the peoples of those regions under one government Although some of the Hellenistic kingdoms proved to be powerful in their own rights especially Ptolemaic Egypt and the Seleucid Empire which encompassed all of Mesopotamia most of the Levant and much of Persia during its height no single kingdom ever proved to be dominant The Hellenic kingdoms battled each other for supremacy and even attempted to claim new lands especially to the east past the Indus River in lands that the Greeks referred to generally as India But as the Hellenistic Greeks turned their eyes to the riches of India a dynasty came to power that put most of the Indian subcontinent under the rule of one king The dynasty that came to power in the late 4th century BCE is known today as the Mauryan Dynasty and although the ruling family was short lived and their power was ephemeral its influence resonated for several subsequent centuries and spread as far east as China and into the Hellenistic west Through relentless warfare and violent machinations the Mauryans were able to take a land that was full of disparate and often warring ethnic groups religions and castes and meld it into a reasonably cohesive empire After establishing the empire subsequent kings were able to focus their attentions on raising the living standards of their people especially Ashoka

The Indus Valley Civilization Kartikeya Shukla, 2021-06-25 The Indus Valley Civilization also known as the Indus Civilization was a bronze age civilization in the northwestern regions of South Asia lasting from 3300 BCE to 1300 BCE and in its mature form from 2600 BCE to 1900 BCE Together with Ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia it was one of three early civilizations of the near east and South Asia and of the three the most widespread its sites spanning an area stretching from today's northeast Afghanistan through much of Pakistan and into western and northwestern India It flourished in the basins of the Indus river which flows through the length of Pakistan and along a system of perennial mostly fed rivers that once coursed in the vicinity of the seasonal Ghaggar Hakra river in northwest India and eastern Pakistan
