Making It Heard Rui Chaves, Fernando Iazzetta, 2019-12-12 From the mid 20th century to present the Brazilian art literature and music scene have been witness to a wealth of creative approaches involving sound This is the backdrop for Making It Heard A History of Brazilian Sound Art a volume that offers an overview of local artists working with performance experimental vinyl production sound installation sculpture mail art field recording and sound mapping It criticizes universal approaches to art and music historiography that fail to recognize local idiosyncrasies and creates a local rationale and discourse Through this approach Chaves and Iazzetta enable students

researchers and artists to discover and acknowledge work produced outside of a standard Anglo European framework

Authenticity in Fusion Music Elsen Portugal, 2024-02-26 Indigenous peoples of Brazil have come to faith in Christ in large numbers in recent decades As Christianity takes root in each culture it may incorporate expressive forms of music and art which can range from those identical to earlier cultural forms to those which are fully imported But what happens when musicians and artists of a local indigenous community fuse elements from a variety of genres and create their own music Are they just imitations of external forms Or are they authentic creations from elements that have now become their own sounds too Christian musicians among the Xerente pronounced Sheh ren teh have created their own fusion genres to express their faith communicate the gospel and edify their churches Their music includes elements from their cultural tradition as well as from secular genres of the northeastern region of Brazil Is it then authentically Xerente As we discuss in this book independent of tangible markers or its long history the authenticity of an art form can be demonstrated through a number of connections with the community and signposted by its meaning and function among the people as well as the competence and agency of the people in their artistic choices
