Tom Houston

Rev Tom Houston served as CEO with the Bible Society; World Vision and Lausanne Committee and is now retired and resident in Oxford, England

Field Marshall John Okello was a self promoted corporal of the Tanganyikan Army. He took charge of the coup against President Julius Nyerere in 1964 when the country was renamed Tanzania. He was asked in a radio interview how he as a humble corporal had learned how to manage a coup d'etat. He replied, 'Oh, it's easy! It's all in the Bible!' It is true. There are all sorts of coups in the Bible and all kinds of leader. It is important to remember that they are not always examples to follow. Some are warnings to avoid. Some need to be examined critically even if they were among the great and the good, like Joshua and David.

Biblical Words for Leaders

Let me begin with some comments on the language of the Bible on our subject. I like the old quip about the authorised version of the New Testament (NT). 'The NT has only one reference to leaders except, 'They be blind leaders of the blind and both shall fall into the ditch.' (Mt. 15. 14) It happens to be true, but I decided to explore this further and looked up my authorised version (AV) concordance. Of about 130 occurrences of the word 'lead', 66 are references to God leading, 34 are to humans leading badly, and about 18 are neutral occurrences. The conclusion has to be that apart from God leading his people, leadership was not a prominent subject in Christian discourse in sixteenth century England. I then decided to see how things had changed in modern translations. I investigated what the words were in the AV that were now translated as 'leaders' in the Good News Bible (GNB). Here is the list:

Elders - of the tribe, of the town or City and occasionally of another state; princes and rulers come next in frequency and of course we have judges; chiefs (of fathers, priests) is quite frequent and captains is used if there is a military connection; nobles, officers, kings, heads, and ancients (Ezekiel 8.11); bishops, dukes, governors (Chronicle 24.5), pastors (mainly Jeremiah), prophet

(once only), ringleaders, saviour, shepherd, and teacher (only of a choir); great men, great ones, honourable men, master, mighty men of valour, mighty men, mighty of the land, overseer, or just over (the preposition); the wise, the understanding, the able; pillars, and those who were of some reputation.

All these words or phrases in the AV are translated as 'leaders' in the GNB. It would make an interesting study of leadership just to go through them and think about their implications. I will not do that. Rather, I want to make the rather obvious observation which arises from this spread of language, that leadership is a composite thing.

Leadership is Composite

I began to learn this in Africa as I delved into the structure of African tribes. Leaving on one side kings and chiefs who are not a universal feature of African traditional life, there are several strands in how matters are led. A leader is there to meet some basic need of the people and to help all the people to achieve as many good things as possible. The main needs of people can be divided into four categories.

The Elders

People need to be secure and not feel threatened. They need order within which to work. This is the role of the elder in African society. They make sure that there are arrangements to cater for everyone and everything in the tribe. Generally this is not an up front leadership - it is behind the scenes and more effective if it is so. In the New Testament this is the gift of administration (1 Corinthians 12.28). It is also the work of the pastor or overseer.

The Experts

People need to know. God has made people intelligent. They want to know things. There need to be
