Reconstruction Effects in Relative Clauses Manfred Krifka,Mathias Schenner,2018-11-19 Reconstruction effects in relative clauses are a class of phenomena where the external head of the relative clause seems to behave as if it occupied a position within the relative clause as far as some commonly accepted principle of grammar is concerned. An often cited type of example is The relative of his which every man admires most is his mother where the pronoun his in the relative head appears to be bound by the quantified noun phrase every man in the relative clause although the latter does not command the former which is commonly required for binding. Several solutions have been developed in various theoretical frameworks. One interesting aspect about reconstruction effects in relative clauses is that they can be used as a benchmark for competing theories of grammar. Which architecture of the syntax semantics interface can provide the most satisfying explanation for these phenomena. This volume brings together researchers working in different frameworks but looking at the same set of empirical facts enabling the reader to develop their own perspective on the perfect tradeoff between syntax and semantics in a theory of grammar.

Literature Connection Kathy Everts Danielson, 1994-07 The Ark, 1918 The Brave Days of Old. A Book for Boys. Selected and Edited by Mrs. Valentine afterwards VALENTINE JEWRY (Laura), 1874 Primary Plans, 1913 Inviting Children's Responses to Literature Amy A. McClure, Janice V. Kristo, 1994. Intended to encourage teachers and students to take a fresh look at children's literature this practical collection of ideas offers plot summaries and suggests teaching strategies for 57 notable children's books. Books in the collection were chosen outstanding trade books by a National Council of Teachers of English committee on trade books. Selections in the collection include poetry, historical fiction, realistic fiction, fantasy, folktales, picture books, biographies, and nonfiction. Included in the collection are works by Mary Hoffman, Ken Kesey, Arnold Lobel, Karen Lynn Williams, James Howe, and Avi. Each of the 57 response guides is composed of four sections: suggested grade levels, a plot summary, teaching suggestions, and a list of related books. Teaching strategies presented in the collection offer a wide range of possibilities from dramatization to storymapping to journal writing; the focus is on stimulating critical thinking that leads readers to new insights.

Along with bibliographic information, the expected date of publication and the names of literary agents for individual titles are provided. Starred reviews serve several functions. In the adult section they mark potential bestsellers, major promotions, book club selections, and just very good books; in the children's section they denote books of very high quality. The unsigned reviews manage to be discerning and sometimes quite critical.
