Curriculum Differentiation Reba Page, Linda Valli, 1990-11-27 Sharing methods and orientations of the interpretive paradigm the contributors to this book sharpen our understanding of the school's differentiating function. They analyze issues and clarify persistent contradictions in traditional studies of curriculum differentiation and tracking by examining schools and classrooms and describing the processes and contexts in which curriculum differentiation produces both its intended and unintended effects. Curriculum Differentiation focuses on student's creation of meaning from differentiated classroom experiences. It studies lower track students, analyzes the experiences of students in alternative programs, and contrasts the experiences of honor students in two different schools. It also offers teachers perspectives and analyzes curriculum differentiation from a district or system perspective. The authors challenge notions that curriculum differentiation is a neutral necessary response to individual differences or that it has an adverse impact on students. Professional educators interested in understanding and improving the means by which high schools carry out the nearly impossible mandate of equitably distributing humanized knowledge while accommodating diversity will find this book an important resource.

This book provides background from experts and clarifies what is not differentiation as well as what is. It offers ways for teachers to think about student interests and learning profiles and also looks at varied ways to approach instructional planning for differentiated learning.
