Magazines for Libraries William A. Katz, 2006 Severing the Ties that Bind Katherine Pettipas, 1994-10-28 Religious ceremonies were an inseparable part of Aboriginal traditional life reinforcing social economic and political values However missionaries and government officials with ethnocentric attitudes of cultural superiority decreed that Native dances and ceremonies were immoral or un Christian and an impediment to the integration of the Native population into Canadian society Beginning in 1885 the Department of Indian Affairs implemented a series of amendments to the Canadian Indian Act designed to eliminate traditional forms of religious expression and customs such as the Sun Dance the Midewiwin the Sweat Lodge and giveaway ceremonies However the amendments were only partially effective Aboriginal resistance to the laws took many forms community leaders challenged the legitimacy of the terms and the manner in which the regulations were implemented and they altered their ceremonies the times and locations the practices in an attempt both to avoid detection and to placate the agents who enforced the law Katherine Pettipas views the amendments as part of official support for the destruction of indigenous cultural systems She presents a critical analysis of the administrative policies and considers the effects of government suppression of traditional religious activities on the whole spectrum of Aboriginal life focussing on the experiences of the Plains Cree from the mid 1880s to 1951 when the regulations pertaining to religious practices were removed from the Act She shows how the destructive effects of the legislation are still felt in Aboriginal communities today and offers insight into current issues of Aboriginal spirituality including access to and use of religious objects held in museum
