Companion to Food Alan Davidson,2006-09-21 The Oxford Companion to Food by Alan Davidson first published in 1999 became almost overnight an immense success winning prizes and accolades around the world Its combination of serious food history culinary expertise and entertaining serendipity with each page offering an infinity of perspectives was recognized as unique The study of food and food history is a new discipline but one that has developed exponentially in the last twenty years There are now university departments international societies learned journals and a wide ranging literature exploring the meaning of food in the daily lives of people around the world and seeking to introduce food and the process of nourishment into our understanding of almost every compartment of human life whether politics high culture street life agriculture or life and death issues such as conflict and war The great quality of this Companion is the way it includes both an exhaustive catalogue of the foods that nourish humankind whether they be fruit from tropical forests mosses scraped from adamantine granite in Siberian wastes or body parts such as eyeballs and testicles and a richly allusive commentary on the culture of food whether expressed in literature and cookery books or as dishes peculiar to a country or community The new edition has not sought to dim the brilliance of Davidson s prose Rather it has updated to keep ahead of a fast moving area and has taken the opportunity to alert readers to new avenues in food studies Food Policy and the Environmental

Credit Crunch Julie Hudson,Paul Donovan,2013-09-11 The changing economic environment for the consumer that is emerging from the wreckage of the financial credit crunch plays directly into the importance of food spending This is certainly true from the perspective of food prices in the short run but also from the perspective of sustainability and reducing the impact of the environmental credit crunch The economic changes we experience now have a bearing on our ability to manage the environmental credit crunch that looms Food Policy and the Environmental Credit Crunch From Soup to Nuts elaborates on the issues addressed in the authors first book From Red to Green and asks whether the financial credit crunch could ameliorate or exacerbate the emergent environmental credit crunch The conclusion drawn here is that a significant and positive difference could be made by changing some of the ways in which we procure prepare and consume our food

Written by an economist and an investment professional this book addresses the economic and environmental implications of how we treat food The book examines each aspect of the food chain from agriculture to production and processing retail preparation consumption and waste

The American Biology Teacher ,2000 The Infested Mind Jeffrey Lockwood,2013-09-25 The human reaction to insects is neither purely biological nor simply cultural And no one reacts to insects with indifference Insects frighten disgust and fascinate us Jeff Lockwood explores this phenomenon through evolutionary science human history and contemporary psychology as well as a debilitating bout with entomophobia in his work as an entomologist Exploring the nature of anxiety and phobia Lockwood explores the lively debate about how much of our fear of insects can be attributed to ancestral predisposition for our own survival and how much is learned through individual experiences Drawing on vivid case studies Lockwood explains how insects have come to infest our minds in sometimes devastating ways and supersede even the most rational understanding of the benefits these creatures provide No one can claim to be ambivalent in the face of wasps cockroaches or maggots but our collective entomophobia is wreaking havoc on the natural world as we soak our food homes and gardens in powerful insecticides Lockwood dissects our common reactions distinguishing between disgust and fear and invites readers to consider their own emotional and physiological reactions to insects in a new framework that he s derived from cutting edge biological psychological and social science
