Lombardo, 2017-03-27 Originally published in 1987 this title intended to historically reveal through tracing Gibson's development the substance of his views and how they bore upon general philosophical issues in theories of knowledge and to investigate in detail the historical context of Gibson's theoretical position within psychology Though the author has included a history of Gibson's perceptual research and experimentation the focus is to explicate the dynamic abstract form of Gibson's ecological approach His emphasis is philosophical and theoretical attempting to bring out the direction Gibson was moving in and how such changes could restructure the theoretical fabric of psychology He devotes considerable attention to the Greeks Medievalists and the founders of the Scientific Revolution This is because Gibson's theoretical challenge runs deep into the structure of western thought The author's central goal was to set Gibson's ecological theory within the historical context of fundamental philosophical scientific issues Ecological Perception Research, Visual Communication, and Aesthetics Klaus Landwehr, 2012-12-06 This book tries to apply James J Gibson's ecological approach to picture perception to questions of visual communication and aesthetics it provides examples from architecture industrial design and the arts to testify the feasibility of this application Additional theoretical analyses partly based on cross cultural and clinical research help supplement Gibson's basic conjecture that picture perception is essentially based on invariants of optical structure rather than interpretation How Direct is Visual Perception Jerry A. Relations and Population Studies     Architecture and Visual Perception Alice Gray Read, Peter C. Doo, Joseph Burton, 1983     Settlement Archaeology in a Fjordland Archipelago Quentin Mackie, 2001 In this case study from Vancouver Island the p median model in a Location Allocation analysis is applied to a network formed by transportation linkages between 238 habitation zones It is shown that the more central places are also larger sites but this pattern only occurs at a spatial scale difficult to reconcile with deliberate optimising behaviour It is therefore concluded that this descriptive spatial geometry is irreconcilable with any plausible underlying generative social geometry based on either normative cultural rules or deliberate optimisation Recognition that the built environment is an interrupted process rather than a planned finished product allows one to avoid ascribing to the inhabitants a totalised decision set for site location and intensity of use based on the location allocation solution sets Instead it is argued that the observed spatial patterning is better seen as the signature of long term wide scale practical activity of individuals within a landscape of habit     The American Journal of Psychology Granville Stanley Hall, Edward Bradford Titchener, Karl M.
