Echoes Of Balefire:

Echoes of Balefire Unni L. Hoel, 2004-11-29 The only survivor of a terrible accident a four year old girl wakes up to a life in an orphanage in Minnesota Unable to speak English Reidun remembers nothing of her past life except her mother's voice and warm lap No one can tell her about her parents or where they came from but she keeps fantasizing that some day she will unlock those secrets She has dreams and visions lives in her own world and struggles with terrible fears and nightmares making her scream in the night and wake the other children As she grows Reidun discovers ways to vitiare her fears and draws and scribbles constantly trying to put her feelings on paper to chase away the monsters When she learns to read she visits the local library and is taken under the wing of a spinster librarian who eventually is able to adopt her Constantly groping for answers about her parents she reads and writes about Norway which she believes to be her country of origin When years later the librarian dies and leaves her modest estate to Reidun the road is open for her to uncover the mystery of her heritage With no ties to hold her she leaves the United States and enters a magical Norwegian world of natural beauty wonders and hardships Convinced that her parents were rural people who came from the mountains she joins a group of mountain climbers an adventure that ends in disaster on St Hans Night when she is spooked by the traditional bonfire and raped by one of the climbers To help her recover the tourleader sends her higher into the mountains to an old friend who takes her along on lengthy treks and shows her the breathtaking beauty of the mountains The novel becomes a journey back home in search of identity roots and love Reidun learns why her parents fled their country finds her grandmother in the city of Bergen solves a murder mystery and clears her father's name Her efforts allow her to claim her father's land and restore the timber hut where she lived as a tot with her parents Throughout this journey her heart belongs to a mountain man the tour leader Asbjørn who helped her during her early days in Norway Unbeknownst to her he loves her also but wants to give her time to find her way He leaves the mountain life to return to his environmental studies graduates and takes a job working outdoors pursuing his passion for animals When their mutual love is finally revealed and the two become lovers Reidun like her mother becomes pregnant She hides it from her grandmother and struggles to balance her life Her creativity strong will and perseverance carry her till the end While artfully unveiling the layers of her past Reidun's story revels in Norway's rich folklore presents proudly its art music and literature and depicts in colorful prose the beauty of the landscape

Balefire Kenneth William Goddard, Ken Goddard, 1984 Huntington Beach is a quiet haven that has become the scene of a series of brutal unexplained killings that have stunned the local citizens and confused and angered the police because the killings are aimed at them Because the murders aren't locals and it's not just one little town that's at stake but the security and peace of an entire nation
