
*Solution of $f(A)x = b$ with Krylov
subspace information*

11.1 Introduction

In this chapter, I expand on an idea for exploiting Krylov subspace information obtained for the matrix A and the vector b . This subspace information can be used for the approximate solution of a linear system $f(A)x = b$, where f is some analytic function, $A \in \mathbb{R}^{n \times n}$, and $b \in \mathbb{R}^n$. I will make suggestions on how to use this for the case where f is the matrix sign function. The matrix sign function plays an important role in QCD computations, see for instance [147].

In [197] an approach was suggested for the use of a Krylov subspace for the computation of approximate solutions of linear systems

$$f(A)x = b.$$

The approach was motivated by the function $f(A) = A^2$, which plays a role in the solution of some biharmonic systems. The approach is easily generalized for nonsymmetric complex matrices, but we may have to pay more attention to the evaluation of f for the reduced system, associated with the Krylov subspace.

In particular, I will discuss some possible approaches in which the Krylov subspace is used for the computation of $\text{sign}(A)p$ for given vectors p . With the evaluation of the matrix sign function we have to be extremely careful. A popular approach, based on a Newton iteration, converges fast, but is sensitive for rounding errors, especially when A is ill-conditioned. We will briefly discuss a computational method that was suggested (and analysed) by Bai and Demmel [15]. This approach can also be combined, in principle, with the subspace reduction technique.
