Inside and Out Elaine J. Leeder, 2014-05 Inside and Out Women Prison and Therapy challenges conventional thinking about the therapeutic issues facing female prisoners Therapists counselors scholars and activists examine the injustices of the criminal justice system and the roles feminist therapists can play in deconstructing and demystifying the lives of women prisoners by becoming more involved in clinical work

Counseling Women in Prison Joycelyn M. Pollock, 1998-02-12 This volume presents a clear description of the problems of women offenders a variety of treatment approaches and prospects for the future Four chapters are devoted to the particular conditions of women s prisons and the psychological effects on their inmates The remaining chapters address clinical issues

Counseling Women in Prison on Forgiveness, Guilt and Shame LaShawnda Denise Key, 2021 There is a lack of adequate counseling on forgiveness guilt and shame in the women s prison Without effective counseling on those subjects while incarcerated there is potential for the female offender to reoffend Adequate counseling could increase the recidivism rate Counselors in the prison system address behavior issues acclimation of prison life and rehabilitation programs Addressing the issues that precipitates criminal behavior and helping the offender understand the factors that lead them to engage in criminal behavior are overly complex With passable counseling the offenders have the propensity to release the hurt and pain they have lived with and become productive citizens in their community The nexus between moral injury and criminal behavior enlarges an individual s predisposition to engage in criminal activity A number of female offenders and some certified counselors in the field will participate in surveys addressing feelings of unforgiveness guilt and shame The offenders will express their desire to reach freedom from the pain of their past The measure of success will be seen within the period of their incarceration Pre post test will be distributed to the voluntary offender to demonstrate growth in the area of forgiveness guilt and shame The efficacy of counseling interventions and the use of collaborative strategies to combat unforgiveness guilt and shame in prison could reduce the probability of an individual reoffending This is an examination of the importance of adequate counseling on forgiveness guilt and shame in an effort to reduce recidivism and set the women on a path to spiritual freedom

Breaking the Rules Marcia Hill, Judith Harden, 2018-10-24 Breaking the Rules Women in Prison and Feminist Therapy challenges therapists public policymakers voters and those in the criminal justice system to find treatment options empowerment strategies viable resources community support and policies that can help women with problems such as drug abuse domestic violence poverty and prostitution rather than perpetually punishing them Breaking the Rules shows you how our society makes other of those among us who are most vulnerable injured and without resources It digs under your skin and forces you to look at the histories of abuse among women who have murdered their partners the impact of race and ethnicity on patterns of mothering and caretaking of children of women prisoners the lack of treatment options for addicted women prisoners how prison reawakens the feelings of powerlessness in women who have suffered childhood physical and sexual abuse helping women inmates develop marketable educational and vocational skills support systems and positive perceptions of themselves collaborative strategies that challenge the status quo of programs and support available to female offenders and their families a relational model of treatment that is based on the integration of three theoretical perspectives the strengths and limitations of twelve step programs for women Mapping the problems and offering solutions Breaking the Rules walks you through treatment strategies and self confirming experiences such as feminist therapy prisoner led support groups affirmative prison programming and art therapy that help women draw on their strengths come to terms with their pasts and meet future challenges head on
