

The background of the cover is a detailed painting of a rural landscape. In the foreground, a woman in a blue dress and a child in a red dress are sitting on the ground, possibly having a picnic. To the left, a white dog is standing, and a brown dog is partially visible. The middle ground is filled with large, leafy trees in shades of yellow and green. The sky is a pale, hazy blue. The overall style is that of a 19th-century landscape painting.

A Country Calendar, and Other Writings Flora Thompson, 1979 A collection of the articles Flora Thompson wrote for a small magazine the Catholic fireside between 1916 and 1928 when she lived in Liphook in Hampshire as the postmaster's wife Her interest was captured by many things including a kestrel hunting in the January skies the return of migrant birds in April the remedial properties of the elder tree and the solitary life of the ploughman Flora Thompson is perhaps best known as the author of the country classic Lark Rise to Candleford and her remarkable observations about the countryside form a valuable part of the history of rural England A Country Calendar and Other Writings; Selected and Edited by Margaret Lane Flora Thompson, 1979

Village England Trevor Wild, 2004-02-26 The romantic imagery of village England and the prominence that this commands in English cultural identity is well known Yet just how accurate is this notion of the rural idyll in which the organic nature of village life was gradually undermined and destroyed by social and economic factors Trevor Wild's text explores the evolution of village England from the earliest times to the present Drawing upon both contemporary accounts and scholarship he provides an engaging and revealing account of the major transformations affecting the English village Of particular interest is the book's coverage of the more recent past with the whittling away of the great estates the appearance of such institutions as the village hall and the development of alternative systems of power such as the councils Writers,
