from Advanced Business Correspondence Within recent years the subject of business correspondence has found a place in the curriculum of most of our large universities To the collegiate schools of business of course it is practically indispensable their graduates could hardly be sent out without a mastery of this tool of modern business In such institutions as do not have a separate school of business the college of arts or the school of engineering has in some cases established a course in business correspondence Recognition here will doubtless increase as educators become more responsive to the changed conditions whereby so large a proportion of graduates ultimately go into some form of business instead of the learned professions Already they have begun to realize that there is no valid reason why the teaching of English composition should be limited to forms that only five per cent of the graduates will ever have occasion to use and should neglect business correspondence a form that ninety five per cent are certain to use Already they have begun to heed the cry of the business executive Give us men who can write good letters The principles of English composition as a matter of fact can be taught in business correspondence as readily as in the fields of literature About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
