Papers on the Ethics of Administration Norman Dale Wright, 1988 The recent well published cases of unethical behavior on the part of top level executives in business as well as in government have given impetus to an increasing national concern with organizational or administrative ethics Indeed ethics has become the crucial focus in the study of administration As one of the contributors to this work states American management has lost its soul Corrupt and barbaric managerial practices reported in the press and on television have eroded the public s confidence in management leadership legitimacy In this volume ten scholars attack the issues of administrative ethics in ways they think are most important Interestingly most all of the essays return to the familiar theme that organizational ethics is dependent on personal ethics In other words we must become better people if we are to have better organizational governance Good systems do not produce good people rather good people produce good systems The essays in this collection describe a variety of ideas about how contemporary management can incorporate ideas like personal integrity mutual trust and true concern for others as the basis of organizational life In particular they acknowledge that ethics as a discipline is changing There is a growing rejection of the attempt to justify all in terms of some version of science There is rather a return to the systematic thought of Socrates Plato and Aristotle and to the work of the philosophers of the late Middle Ages Answers to the problems of the ethics of administration will be found as we struggle as the Founding Fathers did with the classic and eternal issues of human morality in action
