Costs Of Asbestos Litigation:

Costs of Asbestos Litigation James S. Kakalik,1983 This report examines the money spent to resolve asbestos related injury lawsuits who pays it who receives it and for what purposes After sketching the tangled context in which spending occurs for asbestos product liability litigation in the introduction subsequent sections analyze the actual costs incurred by plaintiffs defendants and insurers in the course of processing asbestos suits to resolution The analysis focuses on net compensation money received by injured persons after deducting litigation expenses and on defense and plaintiff expenses money paid to operate the legal and insurance systems through which society decides who should receive how much compensation and arranges for actual payment Finally the authors total the expenditures and examine the ratio between litigation expense payments and net compensation the overhead costs incurred in generating one dollar in payment to an injured person

Asbestos United States. General Accounting Office,1988 Asbestos Litigation Costs and Compensation Stephen J. Carroll,2002 Examines the dimensions of current asbestos litigation and the potential future effects of the litigation on the U S economy

Costs and Compensation of Asbestos Litigation Stephen J. Carroll,2002 Asbestos Litigation Costs and Compensation ,2002 The RAND Institute for Civil Justice ICJ began analyzing asbestos litigation with an initial study in the early 1980s That study was the first to examine the costs of and compensation paid for asbestos personal injury claims It was followed by other research that addressed the courts responses to asbestos litigation and a number of studies of mass tort litigation in general

Asbestos Litigation Costs, Compensation, and Alternatives Stephen J. Carroll,Deborah Hensler,Jennifer Gross,Elizabeth M. Sloss,Matthias Schonlau,Allan F. Abrahamse,J. Scott Ashwood,Institute for Civil Justice (U.S.),Rand Corporation,2005 Approximately 730 000 people have filed claims for asbestos injuries in the United States through 2002 At least 8 400 defendants and insurers have paid 70 billion to settle these claims The number of claims surged sharply through the 1990s driven primarily by people who claim noncancerous injuries Such trends have raised concerns that there may be no funds left to compensate those whose symptoms have not yet surfaced but who will become seriously ill in the future A number of proposed reforms have been set forth to address these concerns

Variation in Asbestos Litigation Compensation and Expenses James S. Kakalik,1984 This report analyzes characteristics of individual claims that explain variation in compensation and expenses The first section describes the research approach and sketches the tangled context in which spending occurs for asbestos product liability litigation Section II presents data on the characteristics of closed claims and on the actual compensation paid and expenses incurred by plaintiffs defendants and insurers in 1980 1982 Section III focuses on explaining the variation in total compensation Sections IV V and VI respectively analyze claim characteristics that help explain why certain claims receive no compensation identify which claims proceed to trial instead of being closed before trial and identify which claims result in punitive awards Sections VII and VIII analyze the variations in defense and plaintiff litigation expenses Finally Section IX totals the expenditures and examines the ratio between litigation expense payments and net compensation Asbestos Litigation Stephen J. Carroll,2005 Analyzes the costs and compensation paid for asbestos personal injury claims and discuss such issues as the current state of asbestos litigation in the United States the costs of compensation the effects if litigation in the businesses and the evolving character of litigation Asbestos Litigation in the U.S. Deborah R. Hensler,2001 The Federal Government's Cost of Asbestos Litigation ,1985 Variation in Asbestos Litigation Compensation and Expenses ,1984 This report analyzes characteristics of individual claims that explain variation in compensation and expenses The first section describes the research approach and sketches the tangled context in which spending occurs for asbestos product liability litigation Section II presents data on the characteristics of closed claims and on the actual compensation paid and expenses incurred by plaintiffs defendants and insurers in 1980 1982 Section III focuses on explaining the variation in total compensation Sections IV V and VI respectively analyze claim characteristics that help explain why certain claims receive no compensation identify which claims proceed to trial instead of being closed before trial and identify which claims result in punitive awards Sections VII and VIII analyze the variations in defense and plaintiff litigation expenses Finally Section IX totals the expenditures and examines the ratio between litigation expense payments and net compensation Report of the Advisory Committee on Civil Rules and the Working Group on Mass Torts to the Chief Justice of the United States and to the Judicial Conference of the United States Judicial Conference of the United States.
