   The Oxford Handbook of Arabic Linguistics Jonathan Owens,2013-08-15 Arabic is one of the world s largest languages spoken natively by nearly 300 million people By strength of numbers alone Arabic is one of our most important languages studied by scholars across many different academic fields and cultural settings It is however a complex language rooted in its own tradition of scholarship constituted of varieties each imbued with unique cultural values and characteristic linguistic properties Understanding its linguistics holistically is therefore a challenge The Oxford Handbook of Arabic Linguistics is a comprehensive one volume guide that deals with all major research domains which have been developed within Arabic linguistics Chapters are written by leading experts in the field who both present state of the art overviews and develop their own critical perspectives The Handbook begins with Arabic in its Semitic setting and ends with the modern dialects it ranges across the traditional the classical Arabic grammatical and lexicographical traditions to the contemporary Arabic sociolinguistics Creole varieties and codeswitching psycholinguistics and Arabic as a second language while situating Arabic within current phonetic phonological morphological syntactic and lexicological theory An essential reference work for anyone working within Arabic linguistics the book brings together different approaches and scholarly traditions and provides analysis of current trends and directions for future research   Handbook of Arabic Writing and Pronunciation Abdallah Nacereddine,2011-07-19 This Handbook of writing and pronunciation is the fruit of several years teaching the Arabic language at the United Nations Office in Geneva and interaction with students from fifty different countries i e from different religions cultures and linguistic origins It is the collection of lessons prepared to reply specifically to the immediate needs of each student taking especially into consideration his or her language of origin The Arabic alphabet contains several letters and sounds which do not exist in other languages Learners differentiate between them with difficulty and often confuse them Among the languages which use the Arabic alphabet there are several letters which are written and pronounced differently as in Persian Urdu or Pashto This is why whatever the language of origin of the learner I insist on good handwriting and good pronunciation from the very beginning In these languages there are also words of Arabic origin but they have different meanings This is also true for other languages which do not use the Arabic alphabet but which are influenced by Islam such as Malay and Wolof or by Arab Islamic civilisation such as Maltese and Spanish To know a language is to know the mentality the way of thinking and of expressing himself the customs and the life style of the person who speaks that language It is never possible to know and understand a people without knowing its language through studying the language you can identify with the people and even come to love them This book is not a treatise on comparative linguistics However instead of dealing only with the languages which use the Arabic alphabet I refer to other languages since I find that there are common features which every student of Arabic must know whatever his language of origin whether or not it uses the Arabic alphabet
