Archaeological Sites Of Devon And Cornwall:

Archaeological Sites of Devon and Cornwall Tom Clare,1982 Devon and Cornwall Andrew Saunders,1991 A guide to interesting architectural and archaeological sites in Devon and Cornwall and their place in history The book can be used as a holiday planner an historical reference book or a day trip companion South-Western England Leslie Valentine Grinsell,1970 Discovering Regional Archaeology Leslie V. Grinsell,1970 Roman and Medieval Exeter and their Hinterlands Stephen Rippon,Neil Holbrook,2021-03-23 This first volume presenting research carried out through the Exeter A Place in Time project provides a synthesis of the development of Exeter within its local regional national and international hinterlands Exeter began life in c AD 55 as one of the most important legionary bases within early Roman Britain and for two brief periods in the early and late 60s AD Exeter was a critical centre of Roman power within the new province When the legion moved to Wales the fortress was converted into the civitas capital for the Dumnonii Its development as a town was however relatively slow reflecting the gradual pace at which the region as a whole adapted to being part of the Roman world The only evidence we have for occupation within Exeter between the 5th and 8th centuries is for a church in what was later to become the Cathedral Close In the late 9th century however Exeter became a defended burh and this was followed by the revival of urban life Exeter s wealth was in part derived from its central role in the south west s tin industry and by the late 10th century Exeter was the fifth most productive mint in England Exeter s importance continued to grow as it became an episcopal and royal centre and excavations within Exeter have revealed important material culture assemblages that reflect its role as an international port The Journal of the British Archaeological Association ,1877 The Environment and Aggregate-Related Archaeology Tony Brown,2009-01-15 This volume provides a synthetic review of the background and archaeology that has emerged through archaeological interventions associated with the quarrying of sand gravel and rock for aggregates The book covers all periods from the Lower Palaeolithic to Medieval and is organized on a regional basis The review which also contains as yet unpublished data shows how the variety and preservation of archaeology can greatly expand our understanding of the relationships of humans to their changing environments British and Irish Archaeology ,1994 Journal of the British Archaeological Association British Archaeological Association,1928 Bulletin of the Institute of Archaeology University of London. Institute of Archaeology,1983 Numbers for 1958 73 include the annual reports of the Institute for 1956 57 71 72 Geological Hazards in the UK D.P. Giles,J.S. Griffiths,2020-06-09 The UK is perhaps unique globally in that it presents the full spectrum of geological time stratigraphy and associated lithologies within its boundaries With this wide range of geological assemblages comes a wide range of geological hazards whether they be geophysical earthquakes effects of volcanic eruptions tsunami landslides geotechnical collapsible compressible liquefiable shearing swelling and shrinking soils geochemical dissolution radon and methane gas hazards or georesource related coal chalk and other mineral extraction An awareness of these hazards and the risks that they pose is a key requirement of the engineering geologist The Geological Society considered that a Working Party Report would help to put the study and assessment of geohazards into the wider social context helping the engineering geologist to better communicate the issues concerning geohazards in the UK to the client and the public This volume sets out to define and explain these geohazards to detail their detection monitoring and management and to provide a basis for further research and understanding Ancient Monuments in the Countryside Timothy Darvill,2014-02-15 Much of England s rich archaeological heritage lies in the countryside Many monuments such as barrows hillforts and Roman villas are familiar features fo the landscape while other sites lie buried or only partly visible These remains are the result of the impact on the landscape of the countless generations of people who have lived worked and died within it The cumulative effect is the landscape we know today in which the historical dimension is an integral component of the valued whole and an important part of what most people in England are increasingly concerned to see protected and conserved The archaeological heritage however is a finite and fragile resource and much of it has been lost in the last two decades as a result of increasing pressures on farming industry and commerce to maximise the return on investment in the land The conservation of what remains therefore needs to be given urgent consideration This report has three main goals First it aims to present the background to the recognition investigation and management of the archaeological resource Second it attempts to review what is known of the resource the threats currently posed to it and the ways in which it can be exploited and conserved Finally it looks towards the development and promotion of a secure future for ancient monuments in the countryside

Cornwall's Trans-peninsular Route Mark Borlase,2020 This study provides a fresh evaluation of Roman Cornwall and interaction between Romans and the local populous through a landscape study of the Camel Fowey corridor and excavation Index of Archaeological Papers, 1665-1890 George Laurence Gomme,1907

Byzantine Trade, 4th-12th Centuries Marlia Mundell Mango,2009 The papers here examine questions relating to the extent and nature of Byzantine trade from Late Antiquity into the Middle Ages The Byzantine state was the only political entity of the Mediterranean to survive Antiquity and thus offers a theoretical standard against which to measure diachronic and regional changes in trading practices within the area and beyond To complement previous extensive work on late antique long distance trade within the Mediterranean based on the grain supply amphorae and fine ware circulation the papers concentrate on local and international trade
